THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

THE CONSPIRACY AGAINST THE PRESIDENT.

Attempt to Suborn Witnesses to Convict the President of Complicity with Booth to Assassinate Mr. Lincoln.

The Disclosures of the Parties whom it was Attempted to Suborn.

REPORT OF THE ACTING ATTORNEY GENERAL.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE, August 5, 1867.

Mr. President: The application of Charles A. Dunham having been referred to this office, in the customary order of executive business, for the examination and advisary action of the attorney general, it has become my duty, during the indisposition and absence of the distinguished incumbent of the law department, carefully to consider the case. In respectfully declining, as I do, to offer at present any recommendation in the premises, I beg to submit for your consideration the reasons which constrain me to reserve advice and suspend judgment until after I shall have been further instructed by your excellency.

Dunham, the person applying for pardon, is the same who has become notorious under the name of Sanford Conover. He was recently convicted of perjury in the District of Columbia, and is, as I am informed, now incarcerated in accordance with the sentence of the court. His application seems to be predicated, in part, upon a supposed technical irregularity in the constitution of the jury, and is supported mainly by the services which he is alleged to have rendered the cause of justice in aiding the prosecuting counsel in the collection of evidence, and otherwise, upon the trial of John H. Surratt for murder.

The papers upon which his application is grounded, and by which it is sustained, consist of four, in a parcel, which, by indorsement, appears to have reached the executive office on Saturday, the 27th of July, 1867. The first is dated the 22d July, and is written upon the ordinary note paper used by members of the house of representatives, with an engraved vignette caption. The following is a copy:

FORTIETH CONGRESS,
UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22, 1867.

Gentlemen: I suggest that a petition, something like the inclosed, be prepared and signed by you for the pardon of Mr. Dunham. I think he is clearly entitled to it, and hope you will aid him all you can. Respectfully,
J. M. ASHLEY.
Hon. J. Holt, Hon. A. G. Riddle.

It would seem, from an expression used in this note, that a draft of a petition was inclosed. It does not appear what petition was thus designated.

The next paper is the following, from a late representative in congress from Ohio, now a member of the Washington bar:

WASHINGTON, July 23, 1867.
To the President of the United States:

Sir: I was, early in April last, retained to aid the government in the prosecution of John H. Surratt, and took the general management of the preparation of the case.

The labor and difficulties of the case were great, and the government is under great obligations to Charles A. Dunham for much valuable information, both as to the facts and witnesses for the United States, and for the history of and facts concerning the witnesses called for the defense. Although in jail, he managed to keep informed of the progress of the case, and from time to time communicated important facts and suggestions, and seemingly for the sole purpose of a fair investigation of the case, whether it would work for his benefit or not. It seems to me that for his services in this behalf the government should mark its appreciation of them in a way not to be mistaken. Respectfully,
A. G. RIDDLE.

Nothing is among the papers from the office of the district attorney, or from any of the counsel in the Surratt trial, excepting Mr. Riddle.

The next recommendation is from the bureau of military justice:

WASHINGTON, July 24, 1867.

I concur with the Hon. A. G. Riddle in his estimate of the value and importance of the services rendered by Charles A. Dunham, as set forth in the foregoing letter to the president. A principle of public policy leads governments to encourage, by all honorable means, those charged with crime to make disclosures which may, and often do, result in unmasking even greater offenders than those who make them; and hence when they are found to have acted voluntarily, and in good faith, the highest public considerations require that their conduct shall be generously appreciated. The services of Dunham, with the details of which Mr. Riddle must be entirely familiar, as one of the counsel in the case, seem to have been performed without solicitation, and in the interests of truth and justice, in connection with one of the most important criminal trials which has occurred in the history of the country; and, although his disclosures were not directly connected with the criminality of which he himself has been convicted, yet it is believed that they do not the less bring his case within the spirit and reason of the rule of policy referred to, and hence it is for the executive to determine how far they shall be accepted at once as a proof of his repentance, and as an atonement to the law, for whose violation he stands condemned.
J. HOLT.

It may be proper to remark that the recommendation of the judge advocate general is written upon one leaf of the same sheet with that of Mr. Riddle, and not upon official paper.

It will be observed that, notwithstanding this man stood condemned for perjury, Mr. Riddle, by actual experience, and Judge Holt, upon satisfactory grounds of belief, have fully realized his usefulness in promoting, by his co-operation with public agents of justice, the cause of truth on the occasion of an investigation of national importance, and also that the latter intimates his opinion that he had fairly atoned to the offended law, and had satisfactorily demonstrated his repentance. It is remarkable that Dunham himself, in his petition, (which purports to be in his own handwriting), mentions no such grounds, but trusts mainly to a technicality. His petition is as follows:

WASHINGTON, July 26, 1867.
To His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States:

The petition of Charles A. Dunham respectfully shows that in the month of January last he was tried, convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary for perjury, alleged to have been committed before the judiciary committee of the house of representatives during the investigation by said committee of charges against Jefferson Davis of complicity in the conspiracy to assassinate President Lincoln.

That the perjury assigned in the indictment against the petitioner was in having falsely testified that he had no reason to doubt, and did not doubt, the truthfulness of certain depositions made by two persons, called Campbell and Snevel, at the time said depositions were given by them in the bureau of military justice, and in testifying that he had first seen said Campbell in Canada in June, 1865, and said Snevel in Wilmington, North Carolina, in August, 1865.

That on the trial of your petitioner said Campbell and Snevel declared that their real names were Hoare and Roberts, and that the depositions they had made and sworn to in the bureau of military were absolutely false from beginning to end, and were known to be so by your petitioner; and that they were not at—said Campbell in Canada in June, 1865, or said Snevel in Wilmington in August, 1865—the places at which your petitioner claimed to have first seen them.

That it was entirely upon this testimony of said self-confessed perjurers that your petitioner was convicted; and that without the said testimony of said persons the jury before whom your petitioner was tried could not possibly have found a verdict of "guilty."

Your petitioner further says that he was tried and convicted by a jury not qualified to try him; that the jurors before whom he was so tried and condemned were illegally selected and drawn, as decided by the court in the case of John H. Surratt, the manner and form of selecting and drawing the jurors in the case of Surratt and your petitioner being identical. That in the discussion on the opening of the trial of Surratt, as to the legal qualification of the jurors who had been summoned and empannelled to try him, it was contended by the prosecution, and decided by the court, that said jurors were informally and irregularly selected and drawn, and that any verdict they might render upon any trial would be absolutely void.

Your petitioner further says that under the rules and practice of the supreme court of this District, the above informality in the selection and drawing of a jury does not, AFTER SENTENCE under a verdict found by such a jury, constitute a ground for a new trial or other relief by the court; and that the only remedy for such an illegal conviction lies in an application to the executive for pardon.
CHAS. A. DUNHAM.

The above are all the papers which have come to my knowledge in relation to the application for pardon. When considered in connection with other papers, adventitiously received, they excite peculiar interest, and command careful attention. And it is the extraordinary gravity of the import of these papers, last mentioned, in connection with the source whence they come, which makes it my delicate duty to submit their contents for your studious consideration, and to suggest that some proper disposition ought to be made of them, in consonance with the dignity of the government, and in justice to all parties. I introduce them as follows:

First, a communication addressed to the president of the United States, bearing date Washington, July 29, 1867, and signed "Charles A. Dunham." It will be seen that this person, who is certified by gentlemen of official and professional responsibility, and of distinguished sagacity, to be capable of great and valuable service in the disclosure of crime, makes startling asseverations directly against prominent members of the national legislature:

WASHINGTON, July 29, 1867.
To His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States:

In applying to your excellency for pardon, I had not intended to offer any disclosures concerning the plotting of your enemies against you, which could be regarded as an inducement for granting my application. I instructed my wife, in presenting the petition, to refer to the conspiracy of Ashley & Co., so far only as might appear necessary to remove any unfriendly feeling that might have been engendered within you toward me by the newspaper reports, that I had engaged to assist your enemies in their nefarious designs. I adopted this reserve in the belief that the services I had rendered the government, as certified by Judge Holt, the Hon. Mr. Riddle and Mr. Ashley, would in your view and judgment, render me deserving executive clemency, and because I desired that it should appear on the record, and on the face of my pardon, that clemency had been extended to me solely in consideration of my services to the government, and exclusively on the recommendation of prominent radicals, to the end that when I should come to expose the atrocious plot of Ashley & Co., the radicals would not be in a position or able to charge me with doing so in consideration of a pardon, or that the president had pardoned me on condition of my implicating his enemies in an infamous conspiracy.

From the moment I was forced into association with these traitors and conspirators, I determined, as soon as I should be released, to place in the hands of your excellency, or lay before the public a complete exposure of their diabolical designs and most astounding proceedings. This, I believed, would be my sacred duty, for although accused of crime, I am not so destitute of honor and patriotism as not to feel some interest in and obligations to my country.

The interest these persons have felt, and the efforts they have made, (which would have succeeded ere this but for the blunder of one of them,) and which they still propose to make for my release, [F. G.,] I know were prompted by the most selfish motives, in order that they might use me as an instrument to accomplish their devilish designs, and I shall not therefore be guilty of ingratitude in abandoning and exposing their villainy.

My wife has, I believe, explained to you how Ashley, first through his man Friday, Matchett, and afterward in person, managed to make known to me his wishes, aims, and purposes, and enlist me—as far as a forced promise would go—in his enterprise. I shall, therefore, only advert to some things which have been said and done by the conspirators, which are susceptible of being proved against them by the most irrefragable evidence.

After obtaining my promise to render all the assistance in my power, Mr. Ashley explained to me the kind of evidence he thought it most advisable to present against you. (I must be very brief.) He thought it would be very plausible to prove:

1. That Booth had on several occasions paid you familiar visits at the Kirkwood. This, it was hoped, I might be able to induce some of the old female servants to testify to. If this could not be done, then it should be proved by some of my friends who happened to be at the house at the time, who knew Booth, etc., and saw the visits.

2. That you corresponded with Booth, which should be shown by one or more persons who had taken notes from Booth to you, and your replies (contents unknown) thereto to Booth. The witnesses should be persons who profess to have been intimate with Booth, and to have been enlisted by him to the part in the assassination.

3. That the placing of Atzerodt with weapons at the Kirkwood was only a sham—although Atzerodt was not aware of it—to make it appear that you were intended as a victim, and thus distract all suspicion from you of conniving at Lincoln's murder. This also, it was suggested, could be proved by persons who could testify that they had been induced to enter into the conspiracy with Booth, and had performed a part in organizing it, etc., which persons, it was to be understood, were induced to testify under an assurance from the government that they should not be prosecuted for any part they had taken.

The resolution under which Butler's committee was appointed, it will be observed, provides for the protection of such persons—who are furnished with a good excuse for not coming forward before—by offering immunity to all who were connected with the conspiracy who will now come forward and disclose their knowledge on the subject.

4. That Booth, just after the 4th of March, stated to intimate friends in New York, whom he endeavored to enlist in the conspiracy that he was acting with the knowledge of the vice president; that it had been arranged to kill Lincoln on the day of the inauguration, which would account for Mr. Johnson's strange conduct on that occasion, which had provoked so much comment in the press; that you expected the tragedy to be enacted then, and had taken several potations to compose and nerve you for the event; and that you were not so much intoxicated as nervous and excited.

I feel much delicacy in referring to such topics, but I cannot inform you of your enemies' plan and projects without being plain, and I am obliged to write in too great haste to be choice in my language.

I assured Ashley that I should have no difficulty in finding persons of good standing and moral character to prove these matters, and it was agreed that I should do so as soon as released, [A, F, G.]

As an earnest that I possessed the ability to do what I engaged, and in order to satisfy some of their party who doubted the existence of evidence to connect you with the assassination conspiracy, Ashley and Butler desired and pressed me to send for two or three persons of whose intelligence and qualifications they could satisfy themselves, and whom they could parade before their incredulous friends.

I consented, and Ashley supplied the facts it was desired they should know and repeat, and I forwarded them to a trusty friend, with secret explanations as to my own purposes, and instructions for him to procure two other friends to commit to memory the statements enclosed to him, and when sent for to come here and repeat them (but not under oath) to such persons as I should indicate.

After allowing my friends sufficient time to learn their parts, the Rev. Mr. Matchett [B] was sent for them, in order that it might be said that he, agent for the impeachers, had found the witnesses, and that their character for veracity was above suspicion.

On arriving here, these persons were inspected by Ashley and Butler, and were found to possess the requisite qualifications as to intelligence and personal appearance; but, unfortunately for the impeachers, it was deemed necessary to make some changes—modifications in some, and additions to other portions of their statements—before presenting them to the lukewarm radicals it was intended to inflame. It being impracticable for the men to see me at the jail on such business, and equally so for me to communicate to them the desired changes and necessary explanations and instructions in writing, to enable them to incorporate those changes in their original statements, without leading to confusion or contradictions, it was found necessary for somebody else to take my office of preceptor, etc. This, with slight hesitation, was done by Mr. Ashley, on my assurance that the parties were radicals, "died in the wool," and men of honor, in whom he could safely repose confidence.

I have learned, both from Ashley and the parties themselves, what was said and done by and between them in the matter. The statements they were desired to make were revised and corrected by Mr. Ashley, and they were assured by him that in case it should be determined to examine them before the committee, they should be "splendidly rewarded."

Ashley also discoursed to them on the propriety and justness of the course it was proposed to pursue to make certain of the impeachment of the president. He declared that you were a traitor to your party and country, etc., etc.; that there was no doubt of your complicity in the assassination conspiracy; but that the evidence was in the hands of your friends, and could not all be got at; that enough, however, had been secured to satisfy most reasonable men of his guilt, but that, in order to satisfy the most exacting, the statements of these persons before the committee would be requisite; that the end fully justified the means, and that every man who contributed in this way to the impeachment of the president would deserve well of the country, and that he (Ashley) would see them rewarded ten-fold when your successor should come into power.

Subsequently, the parties were presented to Butler, and, after being inspected and passed by him, were introduced by him and Ashley to several radical members of the house, who, it was understood, had hitherto doubted the existence of evidence implicating you in the assassination conspiracy, and who formally interrogated them as to the matters upon which they had been instructed, [A.]

Butler desired to have taken the depositions of these men at the time, but I would not consent to its being done until I should be released, as at first agreed.

These facts can be proved by these three persons, and also by my wife, whose character for truth and veracity is not inferior to Mr. Ashley's; and I shall take pleasure, if at liberty, in producing them before any committee or tribunal for the impeachment of the impeachers.

But the evidence of this conspiracy does not depend entirely upon oral proof. The letters from Ashley, herewith inclosed, in themselves speak volumes. What statement [B] from me could he have wanted, and for what purpose? Anything it was in my power to state to him could have been stated to him orally a dozen times during his previous visits to me.

The statement he wanted was this, and for this purpose: There were many prominent radicals, and especially among his own constituents, who were lukewarm on the subject of impeachment; who were not prepared to believe that you were privy to the murder of Lincoln, and whose co-operation was greatly needed. Ashley, therefore, desired to be able to place before them assurances that the most unquestionable evidence of your guilt could be produced. He, therefore, requested me to prepare an elaborate paper, setting forth that such and such persons could be produced who knew and would testify to this, that and the other thing, including the pretensions that Booth had been seen in your room several times, that you had corresponded with him and with parties in Richmond; and that the persons who could testify to these facts were of the most respectable standing, and would come forward and tell all they knew, if protected by the government. He wished me to put it in a style and tone that would be sure to carry conviction with it. He desired, that in addition to the points of evidence we had conferred about, my statement should contain others; and he gave me a memorandum of other points which he requested me to incorporate in my statement. [B] This memorandum I inclose, and it is, I believe, in Matchett's handwriting, [A] After preparing the statement, I sent it to him at Toledo, where he wished to make use of it, [C.]

There is another note from Ashley enclosed, worthy of attention. It is in pencil, and was written at the office of Judge Carter, [E. F.] After the failure, through the blundering of Matchett, to secure my release at the time promised, I became angry, and used pretty severe language to Matchett. He went to Ashley and Butler in alarm, and reported that I was going to expose the entire scheme to you.

After the persons I had sent for to New York as witnesses had returned, Matchett endeavored, without my knowledge, to persuade them to come here again, and in his letters to two of them he thoughtlessly suggested some additions that it was desired they should make to their statements. He made these suggestions by letter, as his letters explained, because it was not certain that he would be here when they should arrive, or they might meet Judge Bingham, or some of the persons they had been introduced to when previously here, before he could see them and give them their points, and he therefore wanted them "posted."

After my talking to him so severely on account of the failure to have me released at the time promised, [D. F.] Matchett became frightened, and seemed to get the idea that I had his letters to those parties, and had sent them, or copies of them, to you. Possibly, in my anger, I threatened as much. He therefore made known his fears to Ashley and Butler, and Ashley endeavored by this note to obtain the letters.

I have just been ordered to get ready for the penitentiary.
Very respectfully,
CHAS. A. DUNHAM.

The following are the several papers which accompany the above. The letters of reference inserted in the foregoing and annexed to the succeeding, are not upon the originals, but are introduced solely for your convenience in perusing this report.

The subjoined paper, headed "memorandum," by the hand that wrote it, bears internal evidence of having been furnished as a guide to some person or persons who were expected to fabricate corresponding testimony:

[A.]—MEMORANDUM.

Shortly before the inauguration of Lincoln and Johnson, the latter, through or in connection with Booth, sent several letters to the Confederacy, one of which was intended for Jefferson Davis. These letters were borne by a messenger named Allen, who had been acting as a scout or spy for one of the union generals. Allen was provided with a safe conduct through our picket lines, and was supposed to have been sent on secret duty, in connection with his command. He was also provided with papers from a rebel emissary at the north, to ensure him proper treatment when he should enter the Confederate lines. After delivering his mail in Richmond, he returned, bearing several letters which he received from J. P. Benjamin. These letters were inclosed to Booth. On returning to Washington, Allen called on Booth and delivered the package, and Booth, after examining some of the letters, went out, as he said, in search of his messenger. The messenger could not be found, and Booth asked Allen if he was too tired to go as far as the Kirkwood house. Allen replied in the negative, when Booth, drawing forth the package brought from Richmond, selected a letter addressed to "Andrew Johnson, vice-president elect of the United States," and asked Allen to deliver it. Allen promised to do so, and then accompanied Booth to the bar room to first take a drink. Here Allen met a friend, who was invited to join them in taking a drink, and afterward accompanied him to the Kirkwood and heard him inquire if Mr. Johnson was in, and saw him go for his (Johnson's) room. This friend waited until Allen came down stairs, when he asked him, jocularly, what in the devil's business he had to do with Johnson—if he was already begging for an office. Allen can be produced, as well as the friend who accompanied him to the Kirkwood from Booth. Allen, before going to Richmond, had been fed by Booth to believe that he was a confidential and secret agent for the government, and that the letters borne by him had reference to peace propositions, which would speedily lead to a suspension of hostilities and the restoration of the union. And, also, that it can further be proved by two persons, formerly rebel soldiers, that Booth, on the first or second day before his death, fell in with them near Garrett's, and asked their advice and assistance in his efforts to escape. He informed them that he had killed Lincoln, and thereby made a good southern man president. One of the parties, whose name is Dawson, said to him that, if he meant that he had made Andy Johnson president he had done the worst possible thing for the south, as he was more extreme in his views, and a greater enemy to the south than Lincoln. Booth replied that it was a mistake, that Johnson, as a candidate and office-seeker, had to say a great many things, but that as president he could do as he pleased; that he was bound to be a friend of the south, and that if he went back on him (Booth) he would have him hung higher than Haman. These men belong to good families and bear excellent characters, and can be produced as witnesses.

Here the paper ends; but the following, which was originally the final clause, and is now concluded, is still legible:

For the names of Dawson and Allen, used above, leave blanks, or substitute the names of such persons as you know will take their parts.

[B] THURSDAY MORNING, April 18, 1867.

Dear Sir: A telegram calls me to Philadelphia, and I go on the 11 o'clock a.m. train. I, therefore, send you an envelope, in which you can send me by mail your statement.

I hope you will be able to put in the office this evening, so that I can get it by next Monday.

Wishing you every success, I am truly yours,
J. M. ASHLEY.

At and after the word "statement" above, the words "incorporating the verbal" are stricken studiously out.

[C] TOLEDO, OHIO, April 28, 1867.

My Dear Sir: On my return home to-day I found your favor, and the promised statement inclosed. I expect to be in Washington on Thursday, and will see you that day or the next morning.
Truly, your friend, J. M. ASHLEY.
C. A. DUNHAM, Esq., Washington, D. C.

This letter seems to have come here in a common envelope, superscribed "C. A. Dunham, Present," which is much pocket-soiled. The same applies to the following:

[D] SATURDAY, A.M., June 1, 1867.

Dear Sir: Your note is just received. Let your counsel act as they deem best, taking advantage of every legal point which may be presented. I think the course proposed by them is all that we want.
Truly, J. M. ASHLEY.

Next we have the following:

[E] HOUSE REPS., July 8, 1867.

My Dear Sir: I have just seen your wife, and have your letter. You may rest assured that I do not credit the false and stupid reports made against you. If you had the letters, I know you would never send copies to J——. If you can put the originals in my hands, I will say that no one shall take or destroy them without your express order in writing, except you are released. Will see your wife again this evening. Respectfully,
J. M. ASHLEY.
C. A. DUNHAM.

This note is not written in ink, but in pencil, and though dated "House Reps.," is upon a half-sheet of plain note-paper, apparently torn from some note which had been carried in the pocket. It comes here in an envelope, superscribed, in pencil, "C. A. Dunham, Esq., prison." This envelope shows, also, some apparently idle scribblings.

[F] APRIL 26, 1867.

DUNHAM: It is all right. The matter will rest for the present, or till the thing is argued in May. You will not leave the city ad interim. Mr. A. will return next week, when any other matters will be adjusted. Yours, W. B. M.

This is written on a small scrap, in ink, superscribed "C. A. Dunham, present." On a still smaller and much soiled scrap, in pencil, but evidently by the same hand, is this memorandum, or explanation:

[G]
1. The "court" cannot act without being a "particeps criminis."
2. Congress will, at the proper time, exercise its power.
3. Witnesses will be first called before the committee.

This, Mr. President, completes the full and literal recital of all the papers or other adhering data before me. The parcel, comprising all but the pardon papers, reached this office in an envelope from the executive mansion, indorsed "Received from Mrs. Dunham, July 30, 1867." The papers having come from the hands of a person whose application for pardon was undergoing official examination here were, for very obvious reasons, associated with it in considering the matter. Struck by their extraordinary character, yet, remembering in how unexpected and casual a manner they had been received at the executive office, I immediately determined that until I should have made this report, their quality and significance, whatever these may be, should remain unchanged by investigation, or by any extraneous connection or association whatever, not only of record, but, as far as practicable, in my own mind. This course it is necessary to bear in recollection in the act of estimating the probable weight or value of the allegations. There is, indeed, one exception to this. Never having seen the handwriting of the Hon. J. M. Ashley, I thought it due to him that I should not proceed without acquiring a notion of his genuine chirography. I therefore exhibited that letter which was written by Mr. Ashley to recommend the pardon of Dunham to a gentleman acquainted with his handwriting. The latter, without hesitation, recognized that letter as genuine. The others strikingly resemble it.

In conclusion, I beg leave to express the profound sensibility with which I find myself obliged to bring to the serious notice of the president of the United States accusations and papers which must occasion him painful embarrassment. They expose prominent members of the legislature of the union to the shocking suspicion of having conspired with a convicted perjurer for a stupendous imposition—first upon the house of representatives, then upon the people, and then upon the senate of the United States, for the purpose of effecting the impeachment and removal from office of a president of the United States, solely upon suborned testimony. I need not say with what astonishment mankind would hear it charged that a scheme so abominable was hightened still by the peculiar wickedness of attempting to induce the intended victim himself, through appeals to his clemency, to qualify, by a pardon, with consequent competency to act and testify, the principal instrument of the imposture! But, improbable as the existence of such a conspiracy may seem, is not the president exposed to a grave accountability for whatever consequences may possibly follow an incredulity too generous in the premises, to be indulged merely because these adventitious data have been thrust upon his casual notice by a party who has been dishonored by a criminal verdict, but who is still, in the expressed opinion of competent professional persons, qualified to be a vehicle of truth in a court of justice?

I thus lay the whole matter before your excellency, for your better judgment. In the meantime the application for pardon will be suspended.

Very respectfully, your ob't serv't,
JOHN M. BINCKLEY,
Acting Attorney General.
To ANDREW JOHNSON, President of the United States.

Noon Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—It is certain that to-day an order was issued by direction of the president, through Gen. Grant, addressed to Maj.-Gen. Sickles, instructing him that no order can be properly issued and enforced in conflict with the courts in the United States. This revokes Sickles' order No. 10.

A New York special says a bill is being prepared by prominent southern radicals to enforce the confiscation laws, and so modify them as to resurvey all of the seceded states in the same manner as public lands are surveyed, and to grant pre-emption rights to the freedmen and union soldiers. Three hundred millions of dollars, proceeds arising out of sales, are to be used in reimbursing loyal men for property destroyed and confiscated by the Confederate government, and the balance will be set aside for paying pensions to union soldiers. The bill provides that after a survey is made the lands shall be offered for sale to freedmen and discharged union soldiers at the rate of $1 25 per acre, payable in twenty years at an interest of six per cent. per annum, other parties to be allowed to purchase at twenty-five per cent. cash, and equal annual instalments for three years, at six per cent. interest. The last section provides that disloyal persons shall be allowed to retain property to the amount of five thousand dollars, providing the limit of such property do not exceed the legal subdivision of one hundred and sixty acres.

Another special says it was agreed in the cabinet, Grant approving, to instruct Gen. Sickles that he was, in no case, to interfere with the mandates of federal courts. It is believed by the president that reconstruction can go on without abolishing every trace of civil government in matters of local legislation not opposing the theory of reconstruction. It is considered that the state legislature should be allowed to have their own way. This new order, therefore, is the result of these views, and may be regarded as the first check to despotic administration in the south.

Since the suspension of Stanton it is believed that Sickles will resign, others assert that he won't. No doubt Judge Holt will be relieved at proper time. This policy towards the military commanders will be one of gradual decapitation. Sheridan will probably be the first victim, and Pope next. Should the other commanders profit by the fate of these two, and fall gracefully in with the Johnsonian policy, they will be allowed to remain in office for a longer time, and may not be stirred at all if they support the administration heartily and in real earnest, but when Sheridan is removed the rest will tender their resignations. No obstacle will be thrown in the way of their retirement. It has been stated that the general does not contemplate making any changes in the officers of the war office, but some few changes may be looked for among the officers in the different bureaus of the department.

LONDON, August 13.—Advices from Shanghai give the following accounts of the conflict between two steamers of the American squadron in the Chinese waters and pirates of the island of Farmosa. The United States authorities have received neither satisfaction nor apology for the murder of the crew of the American bark Rover. The man-of-war Hartford and Wyoming have been ordered to the scene of outrage on the island of Farmosa, and sailed in June. On arriving off shore, a demand was made for the surrender of the murderers, which was not complied with. In the meantime, it was apparent that the natives were preparing for fight and the shore was vigorously shelled by both vessels. Several boat loads of sailors and marines subsequently effected a landing, and a sharp fight ensued with the Fermosans, which lasted over five hours. The heat was intense, and five officers and men were reported sunstruck. Lieut. Slidell Mackenzie, one of the landing party, died of his wounds. At night all the fighting party had withdrawn from the shore, and the bombardment was resumed and continued while the natives disappeared.

The Hartford and Wyoming sailed for Shanghai, where they arrived on the 18th of June.

The latest advices from Japan, via Shanghai, report that the case of the ship Anna Kimball, seized for infraction of the commercial treaty between China and the United States, has been satisfactorily settled.

LONDON, August 13.—The reported differences between Prussia and Denmark, in regard to North Schleswig and the execution of the stipulations of the treaty of Prague, are in a fair way to be settled. Negotiations now going on between the two countries indicate a disposition on both sides to come to a speedy agreement.

PARIS, August 13.—Reports from Candia say that Omar Pacha has resigned the command of the Turkish forces. No reason being assigned, the report is not generally credited.

FLORENCE, August 13.—Garibaldi is at Sienne, where, it is said, he is actively engaged in renewing preparations for the movement on Rome.

DUBLIN, August 13.—Capt. Moriarty, the leader of the Fenian rising in Kerry county, has been sentenced to imprisonment for ten years.

THIS School is located one and a-half miles from Greenwood Depot on the Virginia Central Railroad and fifteen miles west of Charlottesville and the University of Virginia. The location is well known as Dr. Gessner Harrison, Rev. Wm. Dinwiddie, and Prof Edward B. Smith formerly conducted schools at this place. Previously it was a popular summer resort, conducted by John S. Cocke, Esq. Being situated in one of the most beautiful portions of Albemarle county, in the midst of a refined and intelligent community, remote from places of dissipation, and convenient to Churches and Sabbath Schools of the leading denominations, it possesses rare advantages for a Boys' School.
The course of study is designed to be thorough and comprehensive in Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics and the English Branches, and also to embrace the elements of Natural and Moral Sciences and History.
The Principal was educated at the University of Virginia, and has had an experience of nearly ten years in teaching in schools of high grade in this State, including Dr. Gessner Harrison's school, Bloomfield Academy, Lynchburg Female Seminary, and Hon. R. M. T. Hunter's private school.
The Associate Principal was also educated at the University of Virginia, and has had an experience of eight years in teaching in the Southern States—formerly in Edgeworth Female Seminary, North Carolina, more recently in Sherman, Texas.
The following recommendation of our school by Professors of the University of Virginia, is respectfully submitted:

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, April 7, 1867.
In view of our personal acquaintance with Messrs. H. N. B. and A. J. Wood, we do not hesitate cordially to recommend their school to the confidence and patronage of the public.

TERMS:
For board and tuition, including fuel, washing and lights for the session of ten months, two hundred and seventy-five ($275) dollars in currency. Payments one-half in advance, balance on the 1st of February.
The sessions commences on the 1st of September and close on the 27th of June. Pupils will be received at any time during the session, with a pro rata deduction in charges. Boys from a distance will be allowed to remain during vacation as boarders in the family of the Principal.
Arrangements are made for conveyance from the Depot (Greenwood) to the school immediately upon arrival.
Only two boys in a room.

TO THE READERS OF THE APPEAL.

The constantly enlarging circulation of the APPEAL, and the generous support given to both the Daily and Weekly issues by city and country, assure the proprietors of the general approval by the public of its course since it came into their hands.

Its Past is the pledge it offers for the Future. It will continue to endeavour, in accordance with the motto which it has adopted, to say those things only that are true and honest. It has but a single Client, the People of the South, and it will endeavor to advise its readers wisely. In that it may often fail; but its opinions shall always be honest and conscientious, at least.

Those to whom its conduct is entrusted will continue to endeavor to make the APPEAL acceptable to its readers, and desirable as a medium for advertising. The Masonic column will hereafter appear every Saturday, and on every Sunday reading appropriate to that day: and the proprietors hope, by close attention to the affairs of the papers and office, to still entitle it to the support and confidence of the people, on which alone it depends.

RESTORATION of disfranchised citizens to all rights and privileges of which they have been disseized.

PERPETUAL ASSURANCE to the colored race of all the rights of freemen.

NO REPUDIATION by State or Nation of any honest debt.

NO ESTABLISHMENTS of Military despotisms, no enthroning of martial law, no suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus, no slaying of citizens by Military Commission, no lettres de cachet, in time of peace.

STRICT SUBORDINATION of the Military to the Civil Power.

NO STANDING ARMIES of States in time of peace.

APPROVAL of the efforts of the President to prevent the annihilation of civil liberty by the revolutionizing of the Government, and to restore the Union of the States; and of all that he has done to defend the Constitution and to maintain the rightful supremacy of the civil law; and charity and allowance for what he has left undone or done amiss.

SUBORNATION OF PERJURY.

We put aside much other matter this morning, to make room for the report of the Acting Attorney General, that will startle the people of the country, if anything short of an earthquake can do it. Months ago, SANFORD CONOVER, alias CHARLES A. DUNHAM, who had been hired and paid by the Bureau of Military Justice to procure testimony to convict innocent men of complicity in assassination, was convicted of subornation of perjury, upon a fair trial, before the same Court that has lately tried to convict JOHN H. SURRATT, in the District of Columbia. Only a few days since he was, after an extraordinary delay, incarcerated in pursuance of the sentence rendered on the verdict of the Jury.

SURRATT's trial, also, was delayed for a long time. ASHLEY of Ohio, the maligner of the President on the floor of the House of Representatives, had frequent and private interviews with CONOVER or DUNHAM, and men wondered how a convicted suborner of perjury, himself perjured, "the most artful and experienced perjurer of the age, notoriously such, then in jail awaiting sentence as such," came to "constantly and publicly receive the countenance and sympathy of members of Congress and of the Judiciary Committee." "He has held his levees all summer in prison," says the National Intelligencer, from which we make these quotations, "and one of the counsel in the SURRATT trial,—he that says he had the principal management of the preparation of the case, certified that DUNHAM was his counsellor." His services, HOLT says, were "performed without solicitation, and in the interests of truth and justice," in connection with the SURRATT trial. "Although in jail," RIDDLE, once a member of Congress, now a lawyer in Washington, says, "he managed to keep informed of the progress of the case, and from time to time communicated important facts and suggestions;" and the Government was "under great obligations to him for much valuable information."

Even before ASHLEY brutally charged, and BUTLER hinted, in the House, that President JOHNSON was an accomplice in the murder of his predecessor, we expressed in these columns our belief that an attempt was being made to suborn testimony to prove that charge. And when the Secretary of War permitted UNDERWOOD to issue a writ of Habeas Corpus, that President DAVIS might be brought into Court and released on bail, we believed that this was done in order that the people of the North might understand that the charge against him, of complicity in the assassination, was withdrawn, as it had to be, when the attempt to murder him with it had failed, so that their suspicions might be turned on President JOHNSON.

The Intelligencer says:

Is it not notorious that witnesses last session were here, who were paraded before men dishonest enough to practice a guilty reserve, but honest enough to shrink with indignation from taking part in their subornation? Is it not known that these members were willing to have them brought up to swear, but that some power withheld them for some contingency? And what was that? Their "counsellor" on the Surratt trial says it was because the bargain was his release, and then his men might testify. They failed to get him cleared, for the district attorney's office was not corrupted, and so failed at each step. Then, with unspeakable diabolism, they contrived the plan for defrauding the president out of a pardon, and with this object Stanton's military magistrate and a hitherto respectable member of the bar were not afraid or ashamed to recommend this wretch for that clemency through which he was to become capable and willing to work their plot. Will the conspirators dare pretend that Dunham's disclosure is from an unclean source, and, therefore, incredible? From what source did Riddle get his "valuable information?" His "valuable suggestions?"—not only in collecting witnesses for his own use, but in acquiring a knowledge of "those called for the defense?" Dunham was credible to him then. So credible that his "information and suggestions" reached a point of dignity to entitle the most dangerous perjurer of history to forgiveness and enlargement.

ASHLEY, HOLT and RIDDLE have not withdrawn their applications for his pardon as a reward for his services "in the interests of truth and justice." They are still asking that he may be pardoned, so as to be competent to testify. They certify that he is credible. Now he turns on them, and how are they to assail him? He is their witness. They cannot impeach him. He is their intimate friend and associate. They were very willing to use him against the President. He was a most fitting and excellent instrument to convict him. Is it not just that he should be believed when he exposes them?

Read the record. It is a hideous one. We do verily believe that DUNHAM tells the truth, in his letter to the President. The accomplice is competent to testify against the Principal; and many a one has turned "State's Evidence" before SANFORD CONOVER. The true object of the Committee on Impeachment was to get evidence of Mr. Johnson's complicity in the assassination. For what else did ASHLEY visit CONOVER in jail? For what other purpose was he valuable after he had been convicted? Did they want the President to pardon him out of gratitude, and as a reward? Or was it that the President might thus make him competent to testify against himself?

The Intelligencer concludes by saying:

But what was the plot? There has been talk of impeachment; and this stupendous project was to impeach and remove. But was that all? What! impeach and remove a president who procured the assassination of his predecessor for the purpose of succeeding him, and who was guilty, moreover, of flat treason, and stop there? Would the country tolerate him alive? If he was removed on such charges, the least indulgence for such hideous crime would prove the false witness. He must, then, be speedily despatched, to show they believed the evidence. This would be absolutely necessary. But would they run the risk of a common law trial with its constitutional guards against fraud and fabrication? They could not dare thus risk exposure. Yet he must be put to death, else the people would suspect that he was innocent.

How short the way out of all the difficulty. Here is a bureau of military justice in which to crystalize all that may bubble up from corruption; here is an experienced and hardened slayer of unconvicted men, and butcher of whole armies ineffectually to make a hero of Butler, who commands at the war department; and here are a new president, a new cabinet and a dismayed court. Such were the conveniences for the president's murder and the final extinction of the constitution.

But more is coming. We leave the record to speak for itself for the present.

The New York Tribune of the 10th publishes the Report of the Acting Attorney-General, without a word of comment, apparently stunned by it, although it dilates in the same number on "The Treatment of Convicts," "Men's Grandfathers," and "Rodman Guns."

THE National Intelligencer says of the cotton crop now growing:

The crop is estimated at eighteen hundred thousand bales as the minimum. It may, under very favorable contingencies, exceed this quantity by several hundred thousand bales. The last year's crop fell considerably short of estimates made at this stage of the season, in consequence chiefly of unfavorable weather. This season labor is more expensive and less reliable than it was last year. The freed people, who work on shares, demand one-half of the crop, and are not easily induced to work even for that portion. The planter encounters the risk and expense of a cultivation, including all the fixed capital, the land, stock, etc., and then labor takes one half of the product, while the government lies in wait to seize upon another portion, through the cotton tax, as well as through the tax which the planter pays indirectly upon every article of his consumption. Cotton planting was not highly remunerative last year, and this season it has been, so far as is now known, conducted at a positive loss to the planter.

The political engagements of the freedmen this year will distract their attention from field labors. If they give their time to radical politics they are promised rewards; and if their employers should not pay them for the neglect of their work, then the planters' land and all other property will be confiscated, and given to the negro voters. This last decree of the radical powers was made recently by the great confiscator, Mr. Stevens, and has had already its desired effect. The negroes, not loving labor at any time, will prefer idleness, when they find that will pay better than industry.

One third of the cotton that went forward to market last year, was of the growth of 1865, which parties had kept on hand. This year, none of the cotton of the last crop remains to go forward, except here and there a few bales; and we judge that much less cotton will be made this year, than was made last.

"WANTING IN MANHOOD AND HONOUR."

Such is the sentence, pronounced in advance, by Senator SHERMAN of Ohio, on STANTON, the Secretary of War. In a debate in the Senate on the Tenure-of Office Bill, that Senator said:

The senator, Mr. Hendricks, shows that himself, and argues truly that it would not prevent the present president from removing the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy and the secretary of state; and if I supposed that either of these gentlemen was so wanting in manhood, in honor, as to hold his place after the politest intimation by the president of the United States that his services were no longer needed, I certainly, as a senator, would consent to his removal at any time, and so would we all.

STANTON might with as much propriety have insisted on remaining in a gentleman's parlour, after being requested to withdraw, as have refused to resign when requested to do so by the President.

THE TRIAL OF SURRATT.

The jury in SURRATT's case, notwithstanding all the efforts of the Government, failed to agree. Of this trial the New York World says:

"It was not prompted by the ordinary motives; it has not been conducted in the ordinary spirit of criminal jurisprudence; and is not therefore to be surrendered to oblivion with an apathy which usually follows a failure to convict.

"What were its motives? Not to protect society against a repetition of the same crime by this individual, even supposing him guilty. He had left the country, and, if guilty, would never have returned. The life of no person in the United States was less secure for his being at large; nor would the government of any foreign state have felt any apprehension from his presence in its territory. Neither was it the purpose of this trial to make an example to deter others from the commission of similar crimes. The assassination of President Lincoln had been so terribly expiated by the prompt execution of the other alleged conspirators that nothing could be added to the preventive terrors of punishment, even if a combination of circumstances like that which attended the assassination were ever likely to occur again.

"The motive of this trial was not the vindication of justice, but the vindication of the government and its famous military commission. The prisoner had not, therefore, the ordinary chances of a person on trial for his life. His acquittal would have been a condemnation of the government. If this prisoner could be convicted by an ordinary court of justice, the impression meant to be given to the country was that the military commission, though perhaps irregular, had not violated substantial justice, since the result was precisely similar to what took place in an ordinary tribunal, in a case almost identical, and resting on much of the same evidence. The paramount object of this trial was the exculpation of the government; the life of the prisoner was deemed necessary to the attainment of that object. A weak individual thus struggling for his life against a powerful government bent on taking it as a means of rescuing itself from odium and infamy, was placed at a disadvantage never before encountered by a prisoner in this country in a court of justice.

Judge PIERREPONT, who received a fee from the Government to prosecute, has been for years a most close and intimate friend of STANTON, the most deeply interested of all men to justify the strangulation of Mrs. SURRATT. "Before the trial commenced," says the World, "it was announced from Washington that Judge PIERREPONT would not consent to conduct the case for the Government until he became convinced, by examination of the evidence, that the prisoner was undoubtedly guilty. This was a trick for causing the testimony to be read with jaundiced eyes—a trick for procuring a conviction in the public mind in advance of the trial. There was much similar trickery in the court, calculated to impress the public with the idea that if the prisoner were not promptly condemned, it would be the fault of the jury. The resort to such devices proved, if not the consciousness of a weak cause, then most certainly an excessive and nervous solicitude."

The witnesses for the prosecution were hurried away as soon as they had testified, that the counsel for the defence might not be able to prove that they had made statements elsewhere, contradictory of those made by them in testifying, the Judge refusing to compel them to remain. Of these witnesses, several were of a character so disreputable that it was disgraceful on the part of the Government to put them on the stand.

The Judge, FISHER, though not as coarse and brutal as JEFFREYS and SCROGGS, was equally as unfair. "His rulings were, throughout, most glaringly against the prisoner,"—so much and persistently so, that the counsel for the defence noted a hundred and fifty exceptions. Of his charge to the Jury, the New York Herald says with entire truth:

"It would be strange if the jury could hold any definite line of reason with Judge Fisher's charge, the last thing committed to their memories. That charge would be difficult to characterize. It began with a harangue on the propriety of capital punishment—which seemed to assume that it was not the prisoner's guilt that was in question, but only whether he should be hanged or whether the "sentimentalism" that opposes capital punishment should have its way and save his life. We need not dwell on the glaring impropriety of mooting such a point to the jury that had yet to determine the man's status before the law. Following this harangue on capital punishment came another in equally bad taste on the wickedness of the rebellion, the judge evidently desiring to fortify the unionism as well as the hanging purposes of the jury before taking up the prisoner's case. The charge then discussed the supreme court decision on the Milligan court martial, in connection with which it took up the general principles of the constitution of the United States, and having gone into some detail closed with these words: 'But with this military commission, gentlemen, you have no concern at this time.' Having wakened up to this fact, the judge next entered on Surratt's case, and charged the jury as to its duty if the evidence had produced on the minds of the members 'a moral conviction' of the prisoner's participation in the murder or any of the acts that led to it, instructed them as to the legal value of an alibi, etc. As if the foregoing were not enough curiosities to furnish a single charge, some very novel citations of cases were made, such as a case from the Book of Kings—a good book, no doubt, but not often quoted as an authority on criminal jurisprudence."

He declared to the jury, that they were not the judges of the law. That, other Courts have done, so that he is not to be censured for that. But when he undertook to make law, the jury did have the right, knowing that his charge was not law, to refuse to take his dicta as law, and upon them hang the prisoner. They were the judges of the law, of right, and have always been so, for the express purpose of rescuing men from the vengeance of the Government when it is sought to make them the instruments wherewith to do judicial murder.

STANTON and HOLT have signally failed, after months of preparation, and aided by SANFORD CONOVER's valuable information and suggestions, to justify themselves and the military commission that hanged Mrs. SURRATT. No one now believes that she was guilty. Every one knows, that if she was, she was illegally executed. And above all, such a contrast has been presented to the people between a trial by jury, even before a partisan judge, and a trial by military commission, that there is no danger of that instrument of despotism being used again, except in the Southern Provinces, where the people have no Constitutional or even human rights which a negro or a Radical is "bound to respect."

We see many evil sights in these days of the decadence of the Republic, that affect us with a profound sadness, when we contrast these bad times and the men in power, with "the times that are no more," and the men over whose graves Radicalism ramps and the Mamelukes of military despotism ride. Every one who has lived more than a half-century, belongs more to the past than the present, and consorts with the dead more than the living. There is nothing in our present that does not sadden us; but it is when the springs of civil and criminal justice are poisoned, as they now are, and the bitter waters of Marah flow from them, that the Present is darkest and the Future more hopeless. The trial of SURRATT is one of the mile-stones that mark the progress of the Republic to its final resting-place of shame and dishonour.

An American Becomes a Frenchman.

The acting minister of the interior in France is an American. He was born in Boston, and his father's name was Welles. When he was four years old, his parents went with him to France, where the Marquis de Lavalette took a liking to him and finally adopted him. Some seven or eight years ago, an imperial decree naturalized him as a French subject, and since then he called himself Welles Comte de Lavalette. He made himself notorious by his ultra imperialism, and was rewarded by being put up at the last elections as government candidate for a seat in the corps legislatiff. The opposition candidate twitting him with his foreign descent, and that a native of the United States looked singular in playing the role of an ultra imperialist, Welles issued a card in which he indignantly repudiated the country of his birth, and claimed that he had become a Frenchman from the bottom of his heart. His district being overwhelmingly Bonapartistic, he was, of course, elected, and after the Marquis de Lavalette became minister of the interior he appointed Welles his under-secretary. Whenever the minister is temporarily absent from Paris, Welles has charge of the administration of this important department.

BREVITIES.

—The latest story is that Wilkes Booth is now the captain of a pirate vessel and the terror of the China seas.

—There are over six hundred visitors at the Greenbrier white sulphur springs in Virginia.

—There are seven republican newspapers in Texas, but all supported by contributions from radicals in other states.

—Chignons are now worn in London attached to the bonnet or hat.

—In Virginia there are ninety colored and one hundred and eighty-two white teachers engaged in teaching colored schools.

—A newly invented species of gun-cotton is now extensively used by English sportsmen, and found to be superior to powder.

—The mourning candles used in Germany are made by heating paraffine with the shells of the Anacandian nut, which contain a black resin soluble in paraffine.

—There are three thousand six hundred and sixty-four known languages now used in the world. Of these, nine hundred and thirty-seven are Asiatic.

—"Marrying for life," is a phrase which is coming into use in the west. It does not need explanation.

—To morrow, the 16th inst., will be observed in all Methodist churches south, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

—A very spacious free bathing house was opened in St. Louis on Wednesday.

—Gen. Grant has succeeded the refractory Stanton as temporary secretary of war. Doubtless congress will convene again to reconstruct the president.

—An interesting little three year old daughter of Mr. L. Ellis, about a week ago, swallowed a nickel penny, and died in convulsions from the effect of this poison.

—A divorce was granted a few weeks ago in Chicago to a couple on account of a difference in their ages, and some differences on general principles. The husband's was only twenty-one, but the wife was forty-one.

—A leading Madrid banker, who went to Rome during the centenary, was seized with cholera on his way home, and died. It is now found that the whole of his vast property has been left to the pope. His heirs contest the will.

—Chicago has just put forth a new claim. It proclaims itself the best summer resort and fashionable watering place, if people could only see it in that light, but they can't; or politically or socially desirable.

—The flag of the republic of Nicaragua was displayed in San Francisco on the fourth of July, for the first time, side by side with the flags of the United States and Mexico.

—It is a curious circumstance that the excessive rains of the past season, and which, in this country, have prevailed mainly on this side of the Allegheny range, have also obtained in western Europe.

—The Philadelphia Press very coolly says it would not desire to see such a man as Brownlow governor of Pennsylvania, but he is good enough for Tennessee.

—The Buffalo police are confiscating bread of light weight for the benefit of the poor. The poor are perhaps better acquainted with the light weights than any other.

—The political thimble-rigger who controls the columns of the New York Times applauds, like all his radical contemporaries, the position assumed by Mr. Stanton.

—The Tribune says the streets of New York are a disgrace to civilization, and if fever ever comes the mortality will be frightful.

—The six cent car companies in St. Louis have taken off a cent, and peace reigns again in St. Louis.

—A landscape, by Gustave Dore, was sent to the Yale art exhibition, but the committee on articles rejected it as unworthy a place. Dore is a wretched colorist, but is ambitious in that line. It is something unusual for a committee to reject a picture with a great name attached.

—A radical editor in Ohio by some means got hold of our photograph and says: "We don't want to look at the picture of the traitor, and have fastened it to the chair behind us." Thats nothing—an ass before a cart.—Brick Pomeroy.

—Fat and bone boiling nuisances are complained of in Philadelphia. One of the finest drives in the city is nearly ruined by a similar outrageous nuisance on Washington avenue. Its disgusting odors are carried to Canal street.

—The match game of base ball between the printers and reporters of Chicago, resulted in the triumph of the reporters, the score standing ninety to eighty.

—Pope Pius IX has canonised forty-six new saints, or more than any of his predecessors. He has beatified or declared blessed from two to three hundred persons.

—Seven of the eight jurymen who were for the acquittal of Surratt were southern born; the other was from the north. Two of the remaining four were of northern birth, and two were born abroad.

—Not long since the quarry-owners of New England dismissed a great many of their employees who voted the democratic ticket. No word of condemnation of the occurrence appeared in any republican newspaper.

—The negro George, who attempted a rape upon a white girl, eight miles south of Oxford, Miss., a few weeks ago, was recently arrested near Abbeville and hung by the freedmen of the neighborhood.

—On the 31st of October next, it will be three hundred and fifty years since Luther nailed the ninety-five Theses on the door of the Castle church at Wittenburg. It will accordingly complete the seventh jubilee of the reformation, which historically dates from that day.

—The German residents in China have sent Count Bismarck a testimonial in the shape of a silver goblet, five pounds in weight, and thickly gilt on the inside. On the cover is a bust of the minister, and on the foot of the goblet are the arms of Gens. Von Roon, Moltke, Herwarth Von Bittenfield, Vogel Von Falkenstein and Steinmetz.

—A French genius has invented a new flying machine. Headway in the air is to be obtained by a series of rapid explosions of petroleum, the shocks hitting the machine behind much after the fashion of the stuffed clubs that figure in extravaganzas, and securing a like horizontal propulsion. Of these explosions there are from thirty to forty per minute, and when they fail the aeronaut gets a tumble.

—The Prussian government continues its negotiations with Denmark. A note is now being prepared in Berlin which will state what guarantees Prussia expects Denmark to give to the Germans of North Schleswig before it will consent to the retrocession of this district to Denmark.

—Paper money is now invading Texas. That state, which, during and since the rebellion, enjoyed a coin currency, is about to exchange it for greenbacks and fractional curency. On the Texas central railroad paper money has begun to be received for passage and freights. This is the entering wedge for the introduction of paper money all over the state, and it will there, as everywhere else, banish gold and silver from circulation.

—An exchange says the Atlantic cable, if it had been in existence at the time of the capture of Mason and Slidell, would have saved Great Britain a quarter of a million pounds, which were expended in war preparations.

—A report from Topeka, Kansas via Cincinnati, says that Fort Wallace had been "cleaned out" by Indians, and that the garrison at Fort Hayes had also been attacked by the savages. No doubt a canard.

—The amount of gold imported into Great Britain during the five months ending May 31, 1867, was $22,419,485, as compared with $28,727,280 during the corresponding period of 1866. Of these amounts the United States contributed nearly one-half.

—The challenge of the Ward brothers to the St. John, N. B., crew, to row a five or six mile race on the Connecticut river, for $1000 in gold and the championship of the world, has been accepted.

—Candidates for admission to either department of Yale college, classical or scientific, will hereafter be required to undergo an examination on the metrical system of weights and measures.

—A new factory in Lebanon, N. H., has been purchased by the American patent sponge company for $18,000. The company reduces sponges to pulp to be used instead of hair mattresses and general upholstery.

STATE NEWS.

—The Robertson Register says: "Mrs. Baggett, of this county, last week killed a snake, out of the body of which crawled fifty-five young ones, the shortest one measuring six inches in length. This was a good haul, considering that it was not a very good day for snakes."

—There is much complaint just now in some parts of the state of scarcity of labor; some negroes wont work at all since they became possessed of the right to vote from pride; and others have resolved to "thieve along" until they get the forty acres of land promised to Brownlow's supporters, and of which they feel sure of being possessed "between this and christmas."

—The Fayette Falcon has seen a tomato, raised in the garden of Capt. Christian, of that town, which weighed one pound.

—Neal's State Gazette says there was a free barbecue at Starrett's mill yesterday, at which there were fine speakers, good eating and a social re-union of friends and acquaintances. The object is to form a stock company for the establishment of a cotton factory in Dyer county. The same paper says, a very interesting Presbyterian revival is now progressing at Poplar grove, in that county.

—The contemptible blackguard who edits the filthy Knoxville Whig, does not like our calling Parson Brownlow's recent recovery "a statal calamity;" but is that any excuse for the publication of a ridiculous lie about a worthy gentleman who had nothing whatever to do with the opinion we then expressed, and still more strongly entertain, after the monstrous fraud perpetrated on the people of the state by the recent—so called—gubernatorial election?

THE JOHNSON-STANTON IMBROGLIO.

Verbatim Copy of the Correspondence.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, August 12, 1867.

Sir: By virtue of the power and authority vested in me, as president, by the constitution and laws of the United States, you are hereby suspended from office as secretary of war, and will cease to exercise all functions pertaining to the same. You will at once transfer to Gen. U. S. Grant, who has this day been authorized and empowered to act as secretary of war ad interim, all records, books, papers and other public property now in your custody and charge.

Very respectfully, yours, ANDREW JOHNSON.

To the Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

WAR DEP'T, WASHINGTON CITY, August 12, 1867.

Sir: Your note of this date has been received, informing me that by virtue of the powers and authority vested in you as president by the constitution and laws of the United States, I am suspended from office as secretary of war, and will cease to exercise any and all functions pertaining to the same; and also directing me at once to transfer to Gen. U. S. Grant, who has this day been authorized and empowered to act as secretary of war ad interim, all records, books, papers and other public property now in my custody and charge.

Under a sense of public duty, I am compelled to deny your right under the constitution and laws of the United States, without the advice and consent of the senate, and without legal cause, to suspend me from office as secretary of war, or the exercise of any or all the functions pertaining to the same, or without such advice and consent, to compel me to transfer to any person the records, books, papers and public property in my custody as secretary. But inasmuch as the general commanding the armies of the United States has been appointed ad interim, and has notified me that he has accepted the appointment, I have no alternative but to submit under protest to a superior force.

Very respectfully, yours, E. M. STANTON, Sec'y of War.

To the President.

HEADQ'RS ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES, WASHINGTON, D. C., August 12, 1867.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Sir: Inclosed herewith I have to transmit to you the copy of a letter just received from the president of the United States, notifying me of my assignment as acting secretary of war, and directing me to assume those duties at once. In notifying you of my acceptance I cannot let the opportunity pass without expressing to you my appreciation of the zeal, patriotism, firmness and ability with which you have ever discharged the duty as secretary of war. With great respect, your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT, General.

In accordance with these orders, Gen. Grant quietly took possession of the war office about noon, not even the clerks in the office knowing of the change.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., August 12, 1867.

Sir: The Hon. E. M. Stanton, having been this day suspended as secretary of war, you are hereby authorized and empowered to act as secretary of war ad interim, and will at once enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office. The secretary of war has been instructed to transfer to you all the records, books, papers and other public property now in his custody and charge.

Very Respectfully, ANDREW JOHNSON.

To Gen. U. S. GRANT.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., August 12, 1867.

General: Your note of this date, accompanied by a copy of letter addressed August 12th, by the president, appointing you secretary of war, ad interim, and informing me of your acceptance of the appointment, has been received. Under a sense of duty I am compelled to deny the president's right, under the laws of the United States, to suspend me from office as secretary of war, or authorize any other person to enter upon the discharge of the duties of that office, or to require me to transfer to you or any other person, the records, books and papers, and other public property in my official custody and charge as secretary of war. But, inasmuch as the president has assumed to suspend me from office as secretary of war, and you have notified me of your acceptance of the appointment of secretary of war ad interim, I have no alternative but to submit under protest to the superior force of the president. You will please accept my acknowledgment of the kind terms in which you have notified me of your acceptance of the president's appointment, and my cordial reciprocation of the sentiments expressed. I am, with sincere regard, truly yours,

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

To Gen. U. S. GRANT.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

STANTON.

A reference to our telegraphic dispatches will show that the president has sent a formal request to Secretary Stanton to vacate his place in the war department. Nor can there be any question that, for a long time past, Stanton has been aware that, in the circle of the president's counselors, his room was more acceptable than his company. Not only the president, but also his cabinet council long since ceased to have any regard for Mr. Stanton, or any respect for his deportment and the motives which influence his official conduct. It is understood that he has been acting the part of a spy and informer, in the interests of the radical party, rather than that of a faithful adviser in the interests of the administration. His object has been to thwart, not to facilitate, the action of those who are charged, in their executive duties, with the interests of the country. And perhaps no man in the country is better qualified, by his moral and intellectual organization, to act just such a part. A stranger to refinement and the amenities of culture, sharp, impudent, brusque, prying, with a swagger of defiance in his air, and a tireless activity in gratifying his curiosity, he is a most valuable agent, in such a position, for the radical malignants whom he serves. He has been the medium through which, without doubt, the councils of the administration have been anticipated and obstructed, its policy betrayed and its motives misrepresented and maligned. He is a Sempronius in pretensions, an Iago in treachery. The cold shoulder of the entire cabinet cannot abash such a character; his self-assurance is impenetrable, his insensibility invulnerable. He walks in where he is not wanted; he remains not only where he is unwelcome, but with the purpose to annoy; and the knowledge that this is fully understood, so far from hastening his departure, gratifies his malignity. Like the misshapen monster in the play, he derives his chief pleasure from the consciousness of being the instrument of torture to others.

Such is one view of Stanton's character. There is a second, which, while it in no degree relieves his moral deformity, presents another line of motive. It has been said that cowardice is the controlling motive which keeps him in a position where he is conscious that he is regarded with aversion. Inflated with an idea of his importance, and bewildered at the vastness of the power which his office gave him during the war, and its irregularities, his vindictive nature, dogmatic temper, bullying propensities and intolerant arrogance prompted him to sway the scepter of the despot. Under his orders the prisons in various parts of the country were filled with victims arrested for no crime and tortured in defiance of all law. So relentless was his sway, and so indiscriminate his persecutions, that no citizen was safe from his spies, his informers and his armed miscreants. Neither age or sex could find refuge from his malice. Seizing the unoffending, he would throw them into prisons reeking with filth and contagion, and there they were frequently left for weeks and months, to pine and decay, without accusation or any form of trial. At other times his courts martial or military commissions, "organized to try and ordered to convict," would send innocence to the scaffold or doom it to be shot. With a sneer peculiar to all such natures he would utter a chuckle when told that his victims had constitutional or legal rights, and exult in the idea that his obedient bayonets were stronger than the civil ministers of justice. No commissioned ministers of Satan ever did the work of wickedness with a readier will or a keener gusto. But as active war ceased, his power to tyrannize departed. Since then he has had leisure to review his conduct and to count its cost and consequences to himself; for self is ever uppermost in such a mind. It is not wonderful that the ghosts of some of his victims should haunt his imagination; for the Great Supreme has so ordered His moral economy that guilt shall bring its own tortures, as virtue its own rewards. He is, under these circumstances, too great a coward to return to private life, because he feels that his official position, in a considerable degree, shields him from the chastisement which he fears from those whom he has wronged, or some of their friends. It is said that, so much was he tormented from such apprehensions, he constantly kept an armed sentinel, at the expense of the government, in front of his house, to protect him from real or imaginary danger. Upon no other terms dare he retire to rest. And such is the sleep of the guilty!

And now, say our dispatches, Stanton will not resign, though requested to do so by the president, notwithstanding he is treated with cold neglect or positive aversion by the rest of the cabinet. The poor conscience stricken man clings to his office, under such humiliating circumstances, as the only refuge for his fears; as the only remaining shield from that chastisement, legal and physical, which his guilt constantly apprehends.

But, whatever the precise nature of the motives which control his conduct and induce him to hold on to his place, it is certain that he remains at the expense of every honorable sentiment which can influence the conduct of men. No man of ordinary decency would remain in a gentleman's household after being advised that his presence was offensive; and certainly, by like reasoning, no man with the ordinary instincts of manhood would seek to remain in the cabinet of the president, where the relations are strictly confidential, after being advised that neither the president nor his council desired his presence. But Stanton does remain!

—House rents have fallen twenty per cent. in Cincinnati during the past two months.

—The Widow McCree, a paragon of the trotting turf, the gamest mare that ever trotted in a match, is dead.

—A Brussels letter gives some information as to a civic cross which is going to be founded in Belgium for acts of devotedness. It will be in enamel mounted in gold for the first class, and in silver for the second. The project has been well received, and will be soon carried out.

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM D. LEGARE is no more. He was a victim of that lingering and almost fatal disease, typhoid fever. He was taken sick on the 7th of July, and, after a painful sickness of four weeks, died on Sunday evening, the 4th of August. He leaves a devoted wife and a large circle of friends to mourn his death. The subject of this memoir was born in ——— county, Ala., but was raised in Tipton county, Tenn., to which place his father moved soon after his birth. When he arrived at the age of manhood, he obtained a situation on board a steamer on the Mississippi river, and by superior energy and an active mind, he soon obtained the position as engineer, in which he continued until his means were sufficient to enable him to purchase a tract of land, when he moved to Mississippi county, Ark., where he soon obtained the reputation of being the best cotton raiser in the county. For the last four years of his life he had been managing Dr. F. G. McGavock's Shawnee Village plantation, and, under his excellent management, this place had become the model of cotton plantations. The cotton culture was always a study with him, and by his close and energetic attention to business he never missed raising a large crop. He was a pious Christian gentleman. He was raised a member of the Episcopal Church, but had been for several years previous to his death an active member of the Episcopal church, but had been for several years previous to his death an active member of the Methodist church, and died in the full assurance of a better Home beyond the grave.

"May his soul rest in peace."

Office Metropolitan Police Commissioners.

MEMPHIS, August 9, 1867.

J. D. Davis, Tax Collector on Privileges:

I am instructed by the Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners to notify you that on and after the 12th instant you will be required to collect the sum of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS on all licenses granted to keepers of tippling houses within the city of Memphis, as an annual privilege tax. No further demands will be made of ten per cent. on amount of stock purchased during the previous year from parties taking out new licenses. This action of the Board is based upon the following section of the amendment to the City Charter passed March 9, 1867:

"SEC. 15. That the Board of Mayor and Aldermen is authorized to increase the tax on tippling houses to two hundred and fifty dollars per annum, and in case of neglect or refusal to increase it to at least one hundred and fifty dollars per annum, then the Board of Police Commissioners is hereby authorized to levy the said tax of not less than one hundred and fifty dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars, the same to be collected by the Tax Collector as in other cases."

You are furthermore instructed to institute suits against parties whose licenses have expired, and who have failed to make payment of amounts due the city for the ten per centum tax on the amount of their purchases of stock as required by existing ordinance.

I am further instructed to inform you that the Board of Police Commissioners have in contemplation a still further increase of this tax to two hundred and fifty dollars per annum, and that such increase will probably be made on the 1st of September next.

IN pursuance of the provisions of a Trust Deed to me executed by A. Street on 17th day of November, 1859, and which is duly registered in the Register's office of Shelby county, in Book No. 40, Part 1, pages 475, 476 and 477; and also in pursuance of a Consent Decree made by the Hon William M. Smith, Judge of the Chancery Court of Memphis, on 22d day of April, 1867, in the cause pending in said Court, wherein Charles J. Sesy and others are complainants, and A. Street and other are defendants, I will, at the Southwest corner of the intersection of Poplar and Second streets, in Memphis, on Thursday, the 15th day of August, 1867, between the hours of 10 o'clock a.m. and 12 m. of said day, proceed to sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder, upon the terms hereafter mentioned, the following described Lots of Land, together with the improvements thereon, situated in Memphis, Shelby county, Tennessee, viz: Being Lots Nos. 269 and 270, as known on the map of Memphis, and bounded as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of the intersection of Poplar and Second streets, running thence West with the south line of Poplar street 124½ feet; thence South parallel with Second street 74½ feet to a stake; thence West 24½ feet to an alley; thence with said alley 74½ feet to the intersection of the alley; thence East with said alley to Second street; thence with Second street 148½ feet to the beginning. Excepting and excluding, however, from said Lots, that part conveyed and relinquished on the 8th day of March, 1860, by the undersigned and Brinkley & Dougherty, to A. Street, bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning at the South east corner of lot No. 269, at the intersection of the North side of the first alley South of Poplar street with the West side of Second street; thence Northwardly with West side of Second street 28 feet, more or less, to a point at which said West side of Second street is intersected by a line running through the center of the middle parallel wall from East to West, of three story brick building, embracing two tenements now in said lot No. 269; thence from said point of intersection Westward 148½ feet to the East side of the first alley, West of Second street; thence with the East side of said last mentioned alley to the North side of said last mentioned alley, with the North side of the first alley South of Poplar street—said point of intersection being the southwest corner of lot No. 269; thence eastwardly with the East side of the said last mentioned alley, 148½ feet, to the beginning.

Said property will be sold on the following terms, viz: One-fourth of the purchase money cash, and the balance on a credit of four and eight months, for which the purchasers will be required to give notes with approved personal security, and a lien likewise to be retained on the property to secure these deferred payments. The equity of redemption is waived, and the title is believed to be perfect, but I shall only convey as trustee.

University of Mississippi.

EXERCISES will be resumed on the 9th September next. Rev. JOHN N. WADDEL, D.D., Chancellor, assisted by a corps of able Professors.

A Preparatory Department for students who design entering the Freshman Class next year is provided. They must be fifteen years of age. Latin, Greek and Mathematics alone are taught.

A School of Practical Science has been organized, especially for young men who desire to take an eclectic course, exclusive of the classics.

Commercial Law, Book-keeping and Penmanship, will be taught.

Necessary additions to our splendid collection of Astronomical, Physical and Chemical Apparatus will be made, under the superintendency of Dr. L. C. Garland, during the present vacation.

The Law Department, under the instruction of Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar, is in successful operation. The advantages of an extensive Law Library, and the sittings of the Federal Court and the High Court of Errors and Appeals at this place, commend this department to young gentlemen who are candidates for the Bar.

TERMS:

In all the departments (for annual session)	$50 00
Fuel, $15; deposit to cover damages, $3	18 00

Students must make up the deficit when the fuel fee is exhausted. Board at commons, $18 per month; in private families, at $18 to $25; washing about $3 and lights $1 per month. No room rent is charged, but students will provide their own furniture.

The healthfulness of Oxford, its social refinement and religious privileges, commend the University to the country.

J. M. HOWRY, Secretary of the Board.

FLORENCE SYNODICAL FEMALE COLLEGE.

THIS Institution, which has long enjoyed a very high reputation among the Female Colleges of the South, is situated at Florence, Ala. which is admitted to be one of the most delightful and salubrious towns in the southwest. It is very easy of access. A branch of the Memphis and Charleston railroad runs to South Florence. Its President Rev Dr. Wm. H. Mitchell, is well known as one of the ablest teachers in the country.

The Synod of Memphis at its last meeting, passed the following resolution: "We believe that the Florence Synodical Female College from the eligibility of its location, the ability of its Faculty, the course and system of its Instruction, affords equal or superior advantages for the education of Females to any institution in the country."

Next session will commence on the 9th day of September next. For further particulars apply to the President, or to

ROBERT M. PATTON, Governor of Alabama, President of the Board of Trustees.

MRS. F. G. SMITH, - - Principal,

ASSISTED by an able and experienced corps of Teachers. The next session of this school begins on the

FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER.

Many improvements will be made during the vacation, which will add greatly to the comfort and efficiency of the establishment. Some important additions have been made to our corps of Teachers, which will enable us to offer as many advantages as any school in the South or West. Our Boarding Department will be so much enlarged that we can easily accommodate one hundred more pupils than we had last session. Terms as heretofore. For catalogues or other information, address

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

AS administrator of the estate of J. M. Lyles, deceased, I wish to dispose of either a half or his entire interest as SOLE Lessee of the Mississippi State Penitentiary. My brother's lease continues for 13 years, under an act of the Legislature of the State. My object in offering to sell this Lease, either in whole or in part, is to relieve myself of the responsibility of personal attention to the management of the business, which must, of course, center at Jackson, the State Capital, and to be properly controlled would require my immediate and constant supervision. I am a merchant, have a family, and am PERMANENTLY located at Oxford, Miss., and am otherwise so situated that I cannot give the immense interest growing out of this Lease that attention which it deserves. There are at this time about two hundred convicts in the Penitentiary. For particulars address me at Oxford, Miss.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their OWN INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is NO MORE explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL.

You are requested not to pay any carriers without a certificate from me, and to report at the counting desk any irregularity in carriers

ED. J. MANSFORD.

BAG THIEF.—A youthful negro who calls himself Chas. Delaney, was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing a number of grain sacks from Mr. Patterson on the levee. He will doubtless have a hearing before a J. P. to-day.

LIQUOR THIEF.—The weakness of the colored race for the ardent is well known. They will have their morning toddy if possible. One of the colored citizens was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing a quantity of the fluid from the store of Mr. Peter Townsend, on Front street.

POLICE BUSINESS.—Thirty-one cases were tried at the police courts yesterday, by Commissioner Beaumont, and the sum of one hundred and eighteen dollars in fines collected. For the middle of the week this may be considered a fair day's work, for the police treasury, at least.

DISORDERLY.—Four females, known to the police as "polite and attentive lady waiters," were arrested yesterday, charged with keeping a disorderly house on Market street. Not having the necessary number of Mr. Spinner's autographs to deposit, they were locked up. The police commissioner will give them a hearing this morning.

CORRECTION.—The shooting affray which we reported in our last issue between two Germans, Lowenberg and Lebach, did not occur. We reported it on the evidence of Solomon Morris, who represented that he was an eye-witness of the affair. In future we shall be particular how we credit anything coming from this source.

MOONLIGHT PIC NIC.—One of those pleasant affairs with which our citizens are regaled from time to time, will take place at the pleasant town of Hernando to-night, in the shape of a moonlight pic nic. Many persons from the city purpose being present, fully satisfied that the hospitable citizens of Hernando will give them a right cordial welcome.

REFRESHING.—A "thing of beauty is a joy forever," as the poet Keats hath declared, and we concur in the opinion, and feel satisfied that our readers will, after they inspect the new and beautiful soda fount of our friend J. W. Falls, Main street, just below Union, and quaff the exhilarating draughts dispensed by the unrivalled connoisseurs installed in this elegant establishment.

PERSONAL.—Mr. A. L. Cummins left by the Memphis and Ohio train last night on a brief business trip east. Mr. C. was here previous to the war, and established for himself a good reputation in the cotton brokerage business. He is well known to be a reliable business man, and privately, a gentleman of the most high-toned principles and unimpeachable character. We hope soon again to welcome him in our midst.

A GOOD WORK.—In our travels about town yesterday, we were pleased to notice that the Memphis and Charleston railroad company are paving the grounds in front of their warehouse. The stone used is the same kind with which the levee is laid. This is a good work, and doubtless many sincere blessings will be uttered from the lips of honest draymen (who frequent that locality), wishing Col. Tate all the good that can be wished not wronging those they serve.

RETURNED.—Our personal friend, Nathan Hoffheimer, returned to the city yesterday from a short visit to his family at Iuka springs. He looks as handsome as of old, and speaks in the highest terms not only of the springs but of the excellent hotel of Messrs. Patterson, Wright & Co., which is at present inhabited by some of our best Memphis families. Our friend says that no better resort than Iuka can be found by those who desire to escape from the dust and din of the city.

TRUNK ROBBERY.—A frantic individual appeared at the Memphis and Ohio railroad depot yesterday morning, and offered the munificent sum of five dollars for the capture of a tall young man, named Joe Sands, lately an employee of the Overton hotel, whom he charges with stealing the contents from a trunk, and making off with the booty. At last accounts, he was in diligent search of a magistrate, for the purpose of procuring a warrant for the arrest of the supposed guilty party.

EDUCATIONAL.—Attention is directed to the card of Prof. D. Laughlin's high school, located at Raleigh, in this county, contiguous to the springs which are securing such a wide-spread and deserved reputation for their extraordinary curative properties, and in a community celebrated for the intelligence and character of its citizens and the liberal patronage invariably extended to praiseworthy objects. Prof. Laughlin is a thorough educator of youth, and was formerly associated with Dr. Collins, of the State Female college, as vice-president, which position he worthily filled, and to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned. We earnestly commend him to the consideration of our citizens having sons to educate, as a polished gentleman and thoroughly accomplished scholar.

THE FIRST DISTRICT.—Dr. O. R. Early, with that business energy which has always characterized his actions, has established his dispensary and put it in good running order. It is located at No. 148 Poplar street, and in charge of Mr. Butt, a well known druggist, who has his prescription case fitted up in the best style. The dispensary is well located. The rooms are large and airy, and the sick who apply for aid are justly and liberally treated, their wants supplied but with a view to the interest of the city to prevent imposition, as a brief visit yesterday warrants us in saying. The establishment of these dispensaries is a good move on the part of the city, and it is to be hoped that the system will be kept up. At the first glance it may appear expensive, but the good accomplished will more than pay the outlay ten fold.

INQUESTS.—The county coroner, W. B. Cotton, Esq., was called upon yesterday, to hold four inquests. Two of the parties (negroes) died from cholera morbus, and verdicts were rendered accordingly. The other two were entirely different cases. The first was that of a man commonly known as Big Henry, but whose proper name is John Halsey. He was found dead at the foot of the navy yard, near Wolf river. From the evidence given before the coroner, it appears that he had been ailing for some time and the doctor prescribed "chlorodyne," to be taken in doses of thirty drops. By some mistake the deceased took what was supposed to be a treble dose. A verdict was given in accordance with the evidence. The second case was that of Mrs. Wilhelmina Smith, who died on Bradford street, of disease of the heart. Her illness was brief and the death sudden.

PRIZE FIGHT IN CHELSEA.—The once quiet region of Chelsea has been recently the scene of at least one murder and several disgraceful disturbances, but yesterday morning capped the climax. Two pugilistic heroes, who thought they were each entitled to the prize of five hundred dollars, agreed to settle the matter according to the rules of the P. R. The parties had been in training for some time, and presented a good appearance on the ground. The names of the belligerents were Patsey McMahon and Brien Devitt. In the absence of ropes and stakes, a ring was formed by the joining of hands, when the men entered the ring for the fight, which lasted for some twenty or twenty-five minutes, several rounds being fought in that time, when the second of Devitt threw up the sponge. Such scenes do not often happen in Memphis, and the less we have of ...

FIRE ON BEAL STREET YESTERDAY MORNING.

LOSS ABOUT SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Yesterday morning about one o'clock a fire broke out on Beal street, near the markethouse, in the row of tenements immediately west, and resulted in the partial destruction of several buildings and the contents, which will probably amount to $6000. The feed store of St. Sure, which contained a stock of perhaps $2000, and which had an insurance of $1500, was almost entirely destroyed. The "South Market bakery," owned by a Mr. Henderson, whose loss will amount to $600 or $700, and we understand had no insurance. A barber shop was also injured considerably, but the contents were saved. A saloon, called the "Butcher's Hall, fronting the west end of the markethouse, and owned by J. Heinrich, was injured, principally by the water. The rear of this building was used by Mr. Heinrich for his residence, who succeeded in making his escape with a loss of part of his furniture and household goods. The buildings destroyed were of a very unsubstantial character, and we understand it was the intention of the owner to supplant them with new structures at an early day. It is not known how the fire originated, but is supposed by some to have been the work of an incendiary. The market house was endangered at one time, but fortunately escaped injury.

IMPOLITE AGAIN.—A paragraph published in these columns yesterday morning, in reference to the unseating of a lady in the Catholic church on Sunday last, seems to have been slightly incorrect. The lady did not leave the church, but took a seat in another pew kindly offered by a gentleman. We publish the communication of Mr. LeGuere "verbatim et literatim."

MEMPHIS, August 15, 1867.

Editor Memphis Appeal:

Sir—As your article under the caption of "Impolite" in your paper of yesterday does me injustice, permit me to correct it. I entered the Catholic church on Sunday, and found the pew occupied by four ladies; as the pew is designed to accommodate six persons I simply preferred occupying a seat in my own pew in preference to one in that of a stranger. One of the ladies, who is not a stranger, but a regular member of the church, thought proper to vacate the pew, and did not leave the church, but took a seat in another pew. I did not request the lady to withdraw; no necessity existed for her doing so; none regretted her having done so more than myself; certainly no intention of insulting her ever entered my mind. As to the "thrashing," you are again in error. Two men, both armed, assaulted me, while unarmed, and at a time when I had every reason to suppose that the matter had been satisfactorily explained and amicably adjusted. I remain, yours, truly.

JAS. T. LEGUERE.

In reference to the above, we have only to say, as to the thrashing affair, that our statement of yesterday morning was correct. It was a "man to man" fight; and, we are reliably informed, no arms were used or intended to be used. To say the least of it, the conduct of Mr. LeGuere was undignified and ungentlemanly, and having received the punishment due in the premises, it would have been well to let the matter stop at that. Persons present in the church at the time, inform us that the above is the case. The veracity of our informants is unquestionable. In the main, we do not retract from our statement of yesterday.

THE COURTS.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Yesterday the prisoners convicted during the present term of court were brought out and sentenced by the court. They were as follows: Wm. Payne, sentenced to five years' imprisonment—motion for new trial overruled; Lucinda Lee, sentenced to three years—motion for new trial overruled; Jacob Johnson, sentenced to three years—motion for new trial overruled; Wash Smith, sentenced to one year—motion for new trial overruled. In the case of Wm. O'Hern found guilty of larceny, a new trial was granted by the court. Attorney General Wallace, in view of the early adjournment of the court for the present term, had some forty cases stricken from the docket and twenty-five retired therefrom. In these cases the defendants have never been arrested, not being found, and it was desired to relieve the docket and avoid the necessity of transferring these cases from docket to docket, as had been done during the last five terms of court.

It is harmless but effective for all this class of disease, and has never been known to fail. Ye who pine upon the brink of the grave hasten to try its marvelous power. Mansfield & Higbee, sole proprietors.

The Aurora Oil.—The introduction of this oil is destined to work a great revolution in the lighting world. It possesses many advantages over all other means of light, from the fact that it is much cheaper than gas or coal oil, is free from any offensive smell, and best of all, non-explosive. We have examined it thoroughly, and without hesitation pronounce it superior to anything extant for the purposes for which it is recommended. It is also superior to turpentine for paints, oils and varnishes. The proprietors, Messrs. H. C. Dewitt & Co., have an office at 24 Madison street, but they dispose of state and county rights to manufacture only. Their patent has seventeen years to run. Territory is being sold rapidly, and parties desiring to make money will find this a good investment. Don't forget, 24 Madison street, up stairs. ap21 tf

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN HOUSE,

Near Chattanooga, Tenn.

THERE is no more pleasant spot for a Summer residence than the summit of Lookout Mountain. The scenery is most beautiful and affords great delight to the lovers of nature.

Looking to the North and East, from the MOUNTAIN HOUSE, a varied landscape is seen. To the left flows the placid Tennessee, winding in and out among the hills, till far away in the distance its waters seem to blend with the clouds. Wooded hills and rich valleys, with waving fields of corn and grain, extend as far as the eye can reach in the horizon, where the faint outlines of the Great Smoky Mountains are seen traced upon the sky.

It has all the telegraph and mail facilities, being but an hour's ride from Chattanooga, and is a First Class Hotel.

Here in the peaceful days before the war, the beauty and intelligence of the South came every Summer to breathe the pure mountain air, and it will soon again be the favorite Summer resort of all who, tired of the dust and heat of crowded cities, desire relaxation of mind and invigoration of body, amid the finest scenery in the country.

MAGUIRE'S BENNE PLANT.

THIS Extraordinary Medicine, the fame of which is spread broadcast throughout the country, is undoubtedly superior to any remedy ever offered to the public for the complaints for which it is intended. We have in our possession testimonials furnished voluntarily by Col. Long, late Chief Topographical Engineer Bureau at Washington, Gen. Fitz Henry Warren, Gen. Pleasanton, and others of the army; Father P. J. De Smet, the celebrated Indian Missionary, also Officers of the Navy, Surgeons, Hospital Stewards, Commanders of nearly every steamer plying on the Mississippi and tributary rivers, Western Sanitary and Christian Commissions, Army Chaplains, and others too numerous to mention. Likewise highest encomiums of the Press, most of which are published in our almanac, (which we shall send to any one requesting it) praising its valuable medicinal qualities in the highest terms. No other medicine has such recommendations.

Trustee's Sale.

BY virtue of a Trust Deed executed to me on the 12th day of July, 1867, by A. S. Myers, and duly filed for registration in the Register's office of Shelby county, Tennessee, for the purpose of paying the several notes therein secured, I will,

On Monday, the 12th day of August, 1867,

On the premises, in the city of Memphis, county of Shelby, State of Tennessee, expose to public sale and proceed to sell, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described real estate, to-wit: Eight Two-story Brick Store Houses, situated on the northwest corner of Second and Monroe streets, in the city of Memphis, Tennessee, upon lot No. 245, running one hundred and forty-eight and a half feet on Monroe street, and seventy-four and a half feet on Second street: the land upon which the said houses are situated being the same leased by John M. Lea, of Nashville, Tennessee, to A. T. Norton et al for a term of ten years from May, 1858, and by A. T. Norton et al transferred to C. Boyd & Co., and by C. Boyd & Co. to ... Isaacs, and by Isaacs to said A. S. Myers. Said buildings all front on Monroe street, the whole length of the lot to the alley, a distance of one hundred and forty-eight and a half feet, and run back on said leased land a distance forty-eight or fifty feet.

I will sell at the same time all the other improvements upon said leased tract or parcel of land.

The title to said property is believed to be good, but I will sell and convey only as Trustee.

Equity of redemption waived.

Sale between the hours of 10 and 1 o'clock.

W. C. FOLKES, Trustee.

The above sale is postponed until MONDAY, the 26th day of August.

Wanted—Agents.

TO introduce the STAR SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE, an entirely new invention, unlike any other sewing machine in the world. Patented March 12, 1867. It uses two threads, and makes the genuine LOCK STITCH, alike on both sides, that will not rip or unravel. All other low-priced machines make the CHAIN STITCH. It combines simplicity, durability and beauty, is as large as other first-class machines, and will do every variety of family sewing and tailoring. In order to introduce our new and novel machine as rapidly as possible, we propose to furnish them complete—with one shuttle, extra bobbins, a full set of needles, oil can, screw-driver, directions, etc.—at the low price of $25. WRIGHT'S PATENT

IMPROVED IRON SCREW COTTON PRESS

WM. A. ROBINSON & CO., MEMPHIS, TENN.,

AGENTS for Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee. For SIMPLICITY, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and POWER, it stands unrivalled, and its great excellence in these respects makes it the BEST and CHEAPEST COTTON PRESS IN THE WORLD.

Many testimonials as to its practical utility and superior excellence can be shown. In the season of 1866, the local demand for this Press was so great we were unable to meet it, and were obliged to disappoint many who applied for them. We furnish the Irons at our Works in Memphis for $150, with plans and specifications for putting up. The entire cost of a Press complete, when put up, including freight on Irons, is but little over $200.

A Card.

WE will at once rebuild our warehouse, and will have it completed by the 15th of September, but by the first day of that month we will be ready to receive goods on store

The sheds will be divided into fire proof compartments by brick walls, and covered with tin. Those who have patronized us for the last two seasons, and those who may have proposed to do so the approaching one, may rest assured we will be ready for them.

We design establishing a Cotton Compress in connection with our warehouse, upon an adjacent lot, which will be ready by the 1st of October or sooner. The proximity of our establishment to the river renders the handling of cotton so convenient that we can transfer cotton for shipment by river free of drayage. The advantages of the position is equal to one drayage on all cotton sent for compressment from other warehouses, while on all cotton in our warehouse for compressment there can be two drayages saved, which it will be easy for us to transfer it from our shed to the Compress as to turn it out in the ordinary way for transfer by drays.

GROVER & BAKER'S
Celebrated
Elastic Stitch and Lock Stitch

SEWING MACHINES.
Why the Grover & Baker Machine is Best.
1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangement than others.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and the heaviest, and with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton or linen.
4. Its seam is so strong and elastic that it never breaks, even on the bias.
5. It fastens both ends of the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though cut at every sixth stitch, remains firm, and neither runs or ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more plump and beautiful, and retains its plumpness and beauty after washing better than any other.
8. Its seam can be removed in altering garments, after proper instruction, without picking or cutting them.
9. Watching and varying the tensions upon the threads necessary in other machines is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted on the Grover and Baker Machine, any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement, simply by inserting threads of suitable sizes and colors for this purpose. It is the only machine that both embroiders and sews perfectly.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

For the Memphis Appeal.]
ANOTHER LITTLE ANGEL!
BY CARRIE BELL SINCLAIR.

Another little angel!
Part the locks of sunny hair
Drooping o'er the snowy forehead
Of the fair young sleeper there;
Fold the dimpled hands now idle,
O'er the little pulseless breast,
And give him to the Father,
For He knoweth what is best.

Another little angel!
Wearing now the starry crown;
'Twas for this the blessed Savior
To the sinful earth came down;
In His arms He took and blessed them,
While these holy words were given:
"Forbid them not, for such as these"
I came to call to heaven!

Another little angel!
Free from all grief and pain;
No sin or sorrow for him—
Would you call him back again?
Ah, no!—he is so happy
In the blessed realms above!
And there you'll one day meet again
The little one you love.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, Memphis, August 14, 1867.

This has been a dull day in money matters, and we have no material change to report.

Gold is lower than on yesterday and offerings are equally small. We learned however, that one lot of $10,000 was offered and 40c refused for it. Small amounts were taken at 39 to 39½c.

There is no change in rates of silver. Buying at 30 to 32c.

City scrip is in demand and is taken freely over the counter at 54c and in a few instances 55c was paid. Dealers sell at 56c.

County warrants are dull. Dealers have as much on hand as is desirable, and the small demand causes a large margin between the buying and selling rates. The former varies from 65 to 70c, and the latter from 75 to 80c.

The activity in city scrip has not abated—73 to 75c are the buying rates; selling at 75 to 78.

No sales of stocks or bonds reported.

Exchange on the north and east is scarce, the demand being in excess of the supply. Cotton bills are taken at par, while bank exchange commands ¼ to ½ premium; selling rates remain at ¼ to ½ premium.

It is rare to find so many points of similarity between the actual condition of mercantile and monetary affairs in this country and Great Britain as we do at present. At the financial centers of both countries we find a glut of money and corresponding low rates of interest, 1½ to 2 per cent in England being equal to about 2 to 4 per cent here. There, too, we find manufacturing and general business unusually dull, a condition in which it has been for more than a year past, while the crops are likely to be heavier than for some years past. The comparison might be extended to the whole of continental Europe, so far as monetary affairs, at least, are concerned, with a similar result. The hay crop in the United Kingdom was almost unprecedently abundant, and it has been the same in the United States, the whole of it being now secured in each case.

The following circular has been issued by Hon. F. E. Spinner, United States treasurer:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, TREASURER'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, August 6, 1867.

The following letter of the honorable the secretary of the treasury sets forth in general terms how and by whom compound interest notes are to be redeemed at their maturity:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, August 2, 1867.

Sir: In reply to applications that have been or may be made to you by the national banks which are depositaries of public moneys, for authority to redeem compound interest notes at maturity and charge the same to your general account, you may say, that the holders of these notes have no right to claim payment thereof at any other place than the treasury of the United States, at Washington, but that in the exercise of a liberal discretion, the secretary has authorized the assistant treasurers at Boston, New York and Philadelphia to pay these notes when presented for payment at their respective offices. In doing this, the secretary has done as much for the accommodation of holders as the interest of the government and the convenience of the department will permit. The national deposit banks cannot, therefore, be authorized to redeem compounds and charge them to your account.

Very respectfully, H. McCOLLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury.
F. E. SPINNER, Esq., Treasurer United States, Washington.

Pursuant to the requirements of the department, the subjoined rules have been adopted for the preparation and transmission of such notes for redemption, when sent to the treasury district:

1. Holders are required to remit such notes in packages separate from any other notes or securities, addressed to the treasury United States.
2. Express charges upon compound interest notes forwarded to the treasury for redemption must be paid by the party remitting them, and such charges should be prepaid.
3. Schedules of notes should be prepared and sent to the treasury, specifying denominations, dates, letters and numbers contained in each remittance.
4. As a safeguard to holders, it is suggested that these notes may be canceled before forwarding them, by punching out both signatures, care being necessary to leave dates and numbers untouched by the punch.
5. Payment for these notes will be made by checks on assistant treasurers at New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco and New Orleans, or in currency by express at the cost of the owners of notes, as the parties remitting may elect.

F. E. SPINNER, Treasurer United States.

A "national inflation convention" was to have been held in Ottawa, Ills., on the 9th inst. Some four hundred citizens of La Salle county recently held a preliminary meeting at which it was Resolved, 1. That the same inflation of currency under which the national debt was contracted shall be maintained until the debt shall have been paid.

2. That to carry out this policy there should be organized a new national political party.

COTTON—The market was firm today and sales were fair. Prices continue about as they were yesterday, and holders are not disposed to press the market; 30c was offered during the day for a list of strict to a bright style of middling, and refused. Receipts for the day, 25 bales. Shipments, 56 bales.

The few boats arriving from above and the low water in the Ohio has delayed the receipt of many articles of merchandise much beyond the time anticipated, and stocks are, in some things, running pretty low. Meats are scarce and higher. The trade in bagging, though not yet opened; still begins to give indications of coming prices—India is held at 28 to 30c; Kentucky, power and hand loom, from 26 to 28c in quantities. Iron ties will rule at or about 10c. Corn is very dull but holders are firm at $1 05 to $1 10 for choice yellow and white. Cornmeal is held at $5 75 in store, and on the levee at about the same figures; several hundred barrels light weight were taken at $5 25 on the levee. Hay is scarce and firm at $27 to $30 per ton. Oats are in good stock and selling at 50 to 55c. Bran is very dull—200 sacks were taken at $15 per ton, but it is held at $16 to $18. Potatoes are dull at 70 to 75c per bushel in sacks and $3 to $4 per barrel. Onions are becoming more plentiful—held at $4 to $5 per barrel. Apples are dull at $1 50 to $2 per barrel. Choice butter, 20 to 22c; common, not quotable. Chickens, a fair supply—young, $4 to $4 50; old, $5 to $5 50. Coffee, rio, 25 to 28c. Eggs dull at 17 to 18c. Flour, dull, fine, $6 50 to $7; X, $9 to $10; XX, $10 50 to $11; fancy brands, $12 to $14. Lard in tierces, 12¾ to 13c; kegs, 14 to 14½c. Mess pork, $26 25 to $26 50; clear sides, 16½ to 16¾c; shoulders, 13½ to 14c; canvassed hams, 18 to 20c; sugar cured, 21 to 22c. Salt, $3 25 per bbl. Sugar, 17 to 20c for crushed and clarified; 14 to 17c for brown. Western Reserve cheese, 14 to 16c; factory, 16c. Whisky, common, $1 65 to $2.

The official report of the board of trade shows that there were received at Chicago during the past year 12,000,000 bushels of wheat, 33,000,000 bushels of corn, 11,000,000 bushels of oats, 4,000,000 bushels of rye and barley, and 2,000,000 barrels of flour; 1,341,000 hogs, and 373,000 cattle were marketed there. The lumber trade reached 700,000,000 feet and 400,000,000 shingles.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

A stiff north wind yesterday made it much the pleasantest day for some time back. A relief from the intolerable heat which has prevailed since Friday last is very grateful. Business on the landing was dull, the only movement being in cotton, which was intended for the Champion. The river is falling very steadily both here and and above, with less than nine feet to St. Louis. The Ohio is low, with three feet to Louisville.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Great Republic passed up at an early hour yesterday morning. She arrived in New Orleans at 11 a.m. on Saturday and left there the same evening at 11 o'clock, but had to lay bye at Carondelet until daylight repairing her rudder.

The gay and popular packet Belle St. Louis will leave for Cairo and St. Louis to-day at 5 p.m. Capt. Zeigler is in command and Wm. Blenker, Esq., is high cockalorum in the office.

The swift and light draft United States mail packet Celeste will leave for Little Rock on Saturday next. Ferd Hamilton is master, Thompson and Wood are clerks.

Jim Long, mate of the Louisiana, died recently on that boat of cholera.

The firm of Montgomery & Forrest are putting up their saw mill on the levee, above the Star wharfboat, and will be at work sawing material for the pavement in a few days. Business will doubless be good upon the levee this winter, and we hope that the city will not allow the landing to be encroached upon more than possible.

The Pauline Carroll was due from New Orleans last night, and has doubtless passed up during the night.

The paving of Union street from Front to the wharf will be authorized at the next meeting of the board of aldermen.

The Champion left at a late hour last night for Cincinnati. She had about 300 bales of cotton, and will no doubt have as much trouble getting back as she had coming.

It is said that the Richmond will come out of the Ohio on the first rise, and run from this port to New Orleans in connection with the Memphis and Louisville railroad.

We have received the following communication from the local inspectors of this port:

River Editor Appeal: In Monday's issue of the APPEAL we notice the decision given by us in the case of the steamers Victor No. 2 and Peosta, with a large article attached over the signature of S. Boice, denying that he was pilot of the Victor No. 2, and had never been such, but was the captain of the boat, etc. Having given Mr. Boice time to cool down and withdraw what he had written upon the subject, and finding that he has not done so, we hereby state, for the benefit of whom it may concern, that Mr. Boice in his own statement, given under oath, stated that he was pilot of the boat. The man at the wheel, Mr. Ritenhor, was not the pilot, but steersman for Mr. Boice. Mr. Ritenhor, as well as the captain and all other witnesses examined, stated that he (Mr. Boice) was the responsible man; if any censure must be attributed to any one on board, Mr. S. Boice is the party.

The raft Nonpareil, which made the passage to Southampton from New York in forty-three days, is only twenty-four feet long and twelve and a half feet broad. The raft, which has two masts, consists of three cylinders, pointed at each end, united together by canvas connections, having no real deck, and is strengthened by boards slipped under strong iron neckpieces, the whole kept together by lashing. A waterproof cloth, hung over a boom, closed at each end, somewhat resembling a gipsey tent, affords sleeping accommodation, two at a time, and the third keeping watch. This is fixed on a strong locker, in which the provisions are kept. The raft lay-to seven times from stress of weather, and the last vessel spoken was the John Chapman, from which they were given a fowl. They arrived with thirty gallons of water to spare. The captain was poorly two days during the passage, otherwise all have been in perfect health and the men are in good spirits, their countenances looking healthy and bronzed by the weather. They had no chronometer on board, and sailed by dead reckoning, and corrected their position by vessels they spoke. There is a smaller raft on deck for use as a boat. The raft has kept perfectly water-tight all the way, not a leak of any sort having occurred. She is fitted with an apparatus for filling the tubes with air.

Mr. Saroni, who was in this city last summer with a small engine and some petroleum stoves, is now in Cincinnati, and has built a steamer which is run by coal oil exclusively. A Cincinnati exchange of Sunday says: "The steamer Fire King, propelled by Mr. H. S. Saroni's patent machinery for generating steam from petroleum, made an excursion trip a few miles up and down the river yesterday. The performance was highly satisfactory in every particular, and we may add that a number of practical machinists and engineers, including Capt. J. S. Neal, of the low pressure Richmond, and Capt. R. E. Neal, of the Indiana, were more than delighted with the complete success of petroleum as fuel, declaring it safer as well as more economical than either wood or coal. A meeting of the guests took place on board and a very flattering report was made. They give the following as some of the advantages to be gained by the use of crude petroleum as a fuel for steamers. First, about one-third to one-half the cost of fuel is saved; second, all the freight room is saved, as the oil can be carried where the room is not available for freight; third, a great saving in draft, as there are only 240 pounds of oil against an equal of 8000 pounds of coal; fourth, the great saving in time and expense in handling this fuel, as we dispense entirely with the services of firemen and coal heavers, the engineer having full control of the fire by turning a single stop cock; fifth, there is a steady, uniform heat under the boilers, which must increase the average speed of boats and must necessarily add to the durability of boilers and other iron exposed to heat; sixth, the danger of fire on board is greatly decreased, as the combustion is perfect, there being no sparks, cinders, smoke or ashes, and the oil is carried in such a position as to be not only protected against ordinary accidents, but against incendiaries, it being inaccessible."

The Mobile Times of Sunday says: The extra labor that the steamboats pay for—that is, the amount paid for help (generally so much per hour) in addition to the regular crew who have made the trip on the boat—has always been a sore subject with steamboat owners, the hands averring in many instances that the crew (deck hands), as soon as the boat is made fast to the wharf, cease their connection as such, becoming laborers at say twenty-five cents per hour, and so remain until the boat is discharged and loaded again, when they collect their labor tickets and become deck hands once more, and so on, the laborer, in many instances, making more money in one day than he could have made as a deck hand in a week. To remedy this, it is proposed to have regular shipping articles, with a pay-roll on the back, which will contain an agreement to load and unload, or no pay; this will also do away the "banking" business, so called, that is putting a lot of poor devils ashore as soon as the mate finds, say second morning out, that he has shipped more than he ought to carry.

SECOND DRAWING
—OF THE—
Southern Asylum
LAND COMPANY,
TO TAKE PLACE AT HERNANDO, MISS.,
AUGUST, 1867.

THE First Drawing, which took place at Hernando, Miss., on the 15th inst., was attended with unusual success, when it is remembered that but a few weeks elapsed from the inception of the enterprise to that event. $17,000 worth of tickets having been sold, a like amount of property was drawn for, under the supervision of gentlemen selected by the ticket holders present. The utmost harmony and good feeling pervaded those present, and as will be seen from the subjoined certificate of the Managers, the affair was conducted to a close in a most gratifying and satisfactory manner:

HERNANDO, Miss., June 15, 1867.
We hereby certify that the above report of the First Drawing of the Southern Asylum is correct, and that the proceedings were characterized by a spirit of fairness and justness unsurpassed by any Drawing of which we have any knowledge. The Managers of the Company placed the tickets and wheels under our sole management and control.
Signed: J. B. MORGAN,
ROBERT TEMPLE,
V. A. MERRIWETHER,
W. W. CAMPTON,
M. MAGEVENY,
JOHN AINSLIE,
Committee.
J. M. HALL, Clerk.

The Prizes drawn on this occasion numbered Forty-seven, and comprised lots in the vicinity of Memphis, Tenn., Corinth, Miss., and Hernando, Miss., deeds to which have been made to the lucky ticket-holders. For this, the Second Drawing, however, we are able to offer our patrons still more attractive inducements to interest themselves in our scheme. From a lengthy list of property, much of which has already been advertised to the public, we select the following:

OUR LIST OF PRIZES.

The First and Capital Prize.
Col. M. C. Galloway's valuable residence, corner of Court and Third streets, Memphis, one block only from the center of the city, and in the vicinity of all the Federal, State and County offices. Lot 37½ feet front by 83½ deep. Valued at $20,000.

Second Prize.
A cottage residence of ten rooms, with lot 60x100, in the city of Chicago, Ill., only three-quarters of a mile from the heart of the city, and within one block of the street railroad intersecting every part of the city. Valued at $5600.

Third Prize.
One residence lot adjoining above property, 25x100 feet; very available for residence and desirably located. Valued at $800.

Fourth Prize.
One residence lot adjoining above property, 25x100 feet. Valued at $800.

Fifth Prize.
One residence lot adjoining above, also 25x100 feet. Valued at $800.

Sixth Prize.
A most valuable manufacturing site with a perpetual fall of 37 feet of water, situated in Winston county, Alabama, with 160 acres of land. Valued at $10,000.

Seventh Prize.
The Franklin Female Institute, at Holly Springs, Miss.; a handsome and well constructed school building, most eligibly located. This is very desirable property. Valued at $8000.

Eighth Prize:
Lot No. 5, in Hays' sub-division, Memphis, size 102x152 feet. A beautiful building lot. Valued at $2000.

Ninth Prize:
75½ acres of woodland near Raleigh, Shelby county, Tennessee, distant from Memphis nine miles. This is very desirable, and an excellent prize. Valued at $2000.

Tenth Prize:
Cottage Residence, 5 rooms; lot 120x170 feet on Borland avenue, near Memphis and Charleston railroad, near corporation line. Valued at $4000.

Tickets $5 each. May be had of, or ordered through, any of the Company's agents, at the Central Agency, Memphis, Tenn., or of Col. James Strain, Hernando, Miss.
Stockholders, Directors and Officers of the Company are prohibited from purchasing or holding tickets in any of the drawings. The Company is simply the media for the purchase and sale of real estate between property holders and the general public. je25 1m

To Builders.
THE undesigned proposes to divide fifty or one hundred acres of his land into small lots—say, of five acres each—and to give the alternate lots in payment for improvements constructed upon the others.
The land is situated three miles east of the city of Memphis, at the terminus of Union avenue, fronting on the extension of that avenue, on Trezevant avenue, and on the Poplar street road. It is covered in part with a beautiful growth of forest trees, and is unsurpassed by any other suburban property in point of health, building sites, and the character of the surrounding neighbors.
In undertaking this enterprize builders can, in addition to their usual profits, calculate with certainty on the enhancement of the value of the lots paid them, by the improvement of those adjoining.
Apply to Roysler, Trezevant & Co., Ayres Building, 276 Second street, or to me at their office. [jy10 1m] N. M. TREZEVANT.

Trustee's Sale.
BY virtue of a Deed of Trust executed to me as Trustee on the 25th day of September, 1861, by John F Page and George W. Cheek, and duly recorded in the Register's office of Shelby county, Tennessee, in book No. 49, pages 578 and 579, I will offer for sale, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, lying on Wolf river, near the city of Memphis, in the above named county, to-wit: A tract or parcel of land bounded as follows: Beginning at a stake ten (10) links north of a willow marked "C F." on the northern boundary line of the John Rice grant where said line crosses the eastern margin of Wolf river; thence down said river with its meanderings south 27° west six chains and sixty (60) links; thence south 27½° west one (1) chain and fifty (50) links; thence south 2½° west five (5) chains to a stake, from which south 80° east eight (8) links is a willow marked "C F.;" thence north 89° east twenty-four (24) chains and eighty-four (84) links to a stake, from which north 61° west eight (8) links is a sweet gum; thence north twelve (12) chains and twenty (20) links to a stake standing on a bridge, from which south 89° west one (1) chain and sixty (60) links is an elm marked "C. F.;" thence 89° west twenty-one (21) chains and fifty (50) links to the beginning. This property is well known as the Cotton Factory, and contains about twenty-nine (29) acres.
The sale will take place between eleven o'clock a.m. and one o'clock p.m., on the 15th day of August, 1867, in front of the business house of Royster & Trevevant, in the Ayres' Block, on Second street, between Madison and Court streets Memphis. The equity of redemption is waived in the deed of trust. The title is therein warranted and believed to be good, but I will not bind myself personally for the title, only selling and conveying as trustee.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—I will be at the IUKA SPRINGS HOTEL, Iuka, Miss., Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, each week, from and after this date until the FIRST of September next (1867). Those who desire to meet, consult and place themselves under my treatment there, can do so. Those who prefer coming to this city, can consult me, at my office here, Thursdays, Fridays or Saturdays each week.
My extensive practice, and successful treatment of all forms of CHRONIC DISEASES in the South for many years past—especially the last six years in this city—is sufficient guarantee to those who are yet afflicted, to justify confidence in my ability to accomplish all that medical skill and remedial aid can do.
I do not profess to perform MIRACLES "by the laying on of the hands," NOR CAN ANY OTHER MAN NOW LIVING. Such pretenders can have influence only upon the credulous and weak minded. My treatment, of all cases, is based upon proper scientific medical skill, aided by a life devotion and extensive experience.
My charges are moderate in every case—far more so than many others of the profession who make the effort and yet FAIL to cure.
For many years past I have made the following my principal SPECIALITIES, viz:
CONSUMPTION, and various diseases of the Lungs and Throat,
DISEASE OF THE LIVER,
DISEASE OF THE HEART,
DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS,
CHRONIC DISEASES of Stomach and Bowels,
DYSPEPSIA—(Indigestion).
RHEUMATISM—all its various forms,
NEURALGIA,
NERVOUS HEADACHE, EPILEPSY,
GENERAL DEBILITY—Nervous Affections,
SCROFULOUS, and other diseases originating in Impurities of the Blood and vital fluids.
FEMALE DISEASES,
Such as are afflictive in their nature, and sooner or later, if not removed, will ruin the constitution, entail years of suffering, or bring the victim to an untimely grave.
